Theater dropped in library vote

Plans for a 500-seat community theater have been dropped from a referendum package being prepared by the Arlington Heights Memorial Library Board of Trustees.

The board has decided to omit plans for the theater from the upcoming referendum for expansion of the library. No date has been set for the referendum.

Richard Frisbie, library board president, said the library "lost that issue not by any great amount (in the April 1 referendum) but I haven't heard from any citizens urging us to go ahead with it."

In the April referendum, voters approved the library's proposal to sell $720,000 in general-obligation bonds for books but defeated a $2.68 million bond issue to expand the library building. A proposal to increase the tax levy from 23 cents to 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation also was defeated.

THE BOARD PLANS to ask for a two-phase expansion including a 300-seat meeting room-program area. Frank J. Dempsey, executive librarian, said the area would be a larger version of the Dunton Room meeting area.

"This would in no way be a theater although we might have a stage. It could be used for a variety of activities and would meet the immediate need we have for a second meeting room," Dempsey said.

The expansion would be south of the structure on land formerly designated for the village cultural center. The first phase of construction would include 20,100 square feet of additional space on the main floor and 15,160 square feet on the lower level along with parking for 58 cars. Phase two would add 12,800 square feet to the main floor with about half the space set aside for the meeting area.

Frisbie said the meeting room eventually would be converted to space for stacks and seating as the library's book collection expands.

DEMPSEY SAID that dropping the community theater from the referendum package will "eliminate approximately $600,000 from the total referendum figure." He added that it also would avoid "an obviously unpopular campaign issue."

Frisbie said original expansion plans didn't include a second meeting room even though "the Dunton Room is just being trampled. We have a need for one right now."

He said a study of local high school auditoriums supported community groups' statements that those facilities "are used at least 90 per cent of the weekends for school activities."

Board member Roland Ley said the revised plan is a way "to be responsive to the voter."

"It makes all kinds of common sense," he said.

Better with age

The sound of clinking wine glasses echoed through the hallway of the Lutheran Home for the Aged as residents tested their palates of world famous wines.

The party, sponsored by the Geyser Peak Winery of California, gave the senior citizens an opportunity to sample a variety of red, rose and white wines. Bottles of Chablis, Chenin Blanc, Cabarnet Sauvignon and Grand Rose wines were provided.

Partygoers also heard a lecture on the basics of wine tasting. Representatives of the wine company explained the characteristics of various kinds of wines and gave a brief history of the wine industry. The party was arranged by Paul Heitner, social services director of the home.

Cheers!

Halas backs public vote on stadium

by KURT BAER

Chicago Bears owner George Halas Wednesday said he supports "without reservation" calls for a public referendum on the team's proposed new stadium at Arlington Park Race Track.

The 80-year-old Halas called the stadium "vitally important to the citizens of Arlington Heights," and said he hoped the plan will be approved.

James T. Ryan, Arlington Heights village president, announced Tuesday he will ask the village board to schedule a binding referendum on the stadium proposal, probably in October or early November. Trustee David Griffin last week also called for a referendum on the project.

"Naturally I hope that Arlington Heights decides to build a stadium. It would be of great benefit to our fans, to the Bears and to the growth of our team," Halas said.

"I ALSO BELIEVE the stadium would be of great benefit to every resident of Arlington Heights, just as I believe the eventual planned development of the race track property will be of great benefit to the community

Many want to vote on arena proposal

The Arlington Heights Village Clerk's office Wednesday reported receiving a number of telephone calls from residents who said they wanted to register to vote in a referendum on the proposed Chicago Bears football stadium at Arlington Park Race Track.

"I must have received 10 or 12 calls myself during the morning," Ruth M. Ruff, village clerk, said Wednesday.

Arlington Heights residents who are not registered to vote may do so from 8:30 a.m to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

If the stadium referendum proposed by Village Pres. James T. Ryan is approved by the village board, Mrs. Ruff said she would schedule several Saturday morning registration dates before the referendum.

August new car sales down 29%

DETROIT (UPI) — The four U.S. automakers reported Wednesday that early August new car sales fell 29 per cent to a 14-year low as the expected rush to beat price increases averaging $300 a car this autumn, failed to materialize.

A UPI survey of dealers across the country indicated many Americans feel they can't even afford the current prices, much less consider the higher 1976 model prices, and are turning to the used car market, which is booming.

The Aug. 1-10 sales drop was the sharpest since early April and ranged from 10 per cent at American Motors to 34 per cent at General Motors. Ford reported a 20 per cent decline and Chrysler, the only automaker still offering cash rebate inducements, said its sales were off 28 per cent from last year.

Prices are already up $1,000 a car

School heads seek OK for school tax hike vote

by JUDY JOBBITT

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 administration will ask the school board Monday to approve holding a Sept. 27 referendum to raise taxes in the district to 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The recommendation also asks the board to issue teachers' orders, a type of promissory note, which also would result in a tax increase.

The administration's request for a 40-cent per $100 assessed valuation tax increase might meet opposition from some board members Monday.

Board Pres. Judith Zanca Wednesday said "the board wasn't thinking about that figure. The board realizes we need more than 15 cents, but we don't know if we need the 40 cents. It probably will be someplace in the middle."

THE BOARD had been discussing the possibility of holding a referendum for a 15-cent per $100 assessed valuation tax rate increase. The lower tax increase would bring the district's tax rate up to the $1.95 level required by the state to receive full state aid.

Currently, the district is receiving less than the maximum state aid allowed, because its tax rate is below the required level. The district also is receiving $2.1 million less state aid this year partly because of declining enrollment.

Updated figures also show the district with a $1.67 million deficit in the education and building funds this year. Surplus funds from last year and the working cash fund will cover the deficit for this year. However, salary increases are not included in the budget, which will add to the projected deficit.

Supt. Roger Bardwell said he is recommending the board approve holding a referendum for a 40-cent per $100 assessed valuation education tax rate increase, although he proposes only 15 cents be used initially. He said the remainder of the increase, if ap-

Irving-Lake stars get funds

Schaumburg Village Pres. Raymond Kessell won't be paid his $261 salary for August. Trustee Herbert Aiger decided he won't accept his salary as a public official either. And there are several more in the same philanthropic position.

The Irving-Lake Senior Babe Ruth All-Stars needed money to go to national competition in Seattle and Schaumburg officials came through with $1,091.47. Personal donations and pledges from village officials who attended a Tuesday night village board meeting will help the team make the trip.

Wheeling employes get 5% hike

A settlement was reached Wednesday in salary negotiations for Wheeling village employes.

The employes accepted a 5 per cent across-the-board increase less than 48 hours after they declared an impasse in the negotiations and asked the village board for an outside arbiter. The board rejected the arbitration request.

The employes gained some fringe benefits, said Patrolman Edward Leach, chairman of the Employe Wage and Salary Committee. The agreement tentatively has been accepted by both sides.

"We still got stuck with the 5 per cent," Leach said, "but all employes were given one personal day off a year." The increase is retroactive to May 1.

Village to stem Hein firm's business

The Village of Wheeling is expected to buy fewer items from an auto parts store owned by the father of Trustee William Hein.

The village board's finance committee adopted a new purchasing system adopted this week whereby the three firms from which it buys auto parts will supply price lists every 90 days. The firms will promise to adhere to those prices for the period and the village would buy the part for the lowest price.

The purchases from Wheeling Auto Parts, owned by Trustee William Hein's father, have been criticized because they totaled nearly 90 per cent of the village's automotive parts purchases last fiscal year. Two other firms shared the remaining 10 per cent.

Bell seeks $62 million rate hike

by LEA TONKIN

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. filed a $62.9 million rate hike proposal Wednesday, with the Illinois Commerce Commission, citing rising costs and declining earnings.

The increased telephone service rates would be effective Sept. 1, if approved by the commission. The utility said March 7 when it requested a $178 million, 14 per cent rate hike that it would ask for an interim rate boost because the commission is not required to hand down its decision until Feb. 4, 1976.

The latest rate-hike proposal was criticized Wednesday by Ellis Levin, an attorney representing the State's Attorney's office. Levin is among interveners in the earlier Bell case opposing the 14 per cent service-rate increase.

"We do not believe at this point that they are entitled to any interim relief," Levin said. "The way in which they arrive at their figures involves all kinds of accounting gimmicks which do not relate what they actually do earn."

ILLINOIS BELL filed Wednesday's rate-increase request in Springfield. "Deferral of the interim relief requested will result in irreparable harm to the company and ultimately to its customers," the company said. The utility said it needs the interim rate hike to bring earnings up to a level authorized by the ICC, 8.5 per cent.

"The Illinois Bell earnings are falling due to rapidly increasing operating expenses, despite strenuous cost-cutting measures," Illinois Bell said. Interest, pension and wages paid to some 30,000 employes are cited as rising costs.

The utility said it needs an added $49.9 million in revenues to bring its annual rate of return to the 8.5 per cent mark. The remaining $13 million requested Wednesday is needed for interest payments on borrowing to finance plant and equipment costs, Illinois Bell said. The firm wants an 8.75 per cent rate of return on net original investment cost of its property, and contends it needs a 9.5 to 10 per cent rate of return "to continue to provide reliable service."

Most of the rate increases included in the original $178 million request apply to "pay as you use" services, Illinois Bell Pres. James E. Olson said.

Levi offers FBI operation safeguards

MONTREAL (UPI) — Attorney General Edward H. Levi said Wednesday the FBI had come close to infringing on the constitutional rights of Americans. He offered safeguards to end the bureau's surveillance of domestic organizations unless they pose violent threats.

"The proposed guidelines would limit domestic intelligence activities to the pursuit of information about activities that may involve the use of force or violence in violation of federal law in specified ways," Levi said.

In addition, wiretapping would be limited to "full scale" investigations of groups which threaten violence. Wiretapping could not be used in limited investigations."

Levi did not otherwise define what determines if an investigation is "full scale."

"Perhaps the most important guidelines the Department of Justice has yet drafted involve domestic intelligence inquiries," Levi told the American Bar Association's annual meeting.

"In the past," Levi said, FBI investigations had not been reviewed outside the bureau and they have "come close to first amendment rights."

A committee of six lawyers devised the safeguards to balance individual rights with a need for investigation. Levi said the guidelines had not received final Justice Department approval although they represent current practices.

The attorney general agreed with FBI director Clarence Kelley's remarks to the ABA last week that similar safeguards could not be applied to national security investigations of the activities of foreign groups.

He noted that court orders are required to initiate wiretaps on domestic groups and added "this is hardly the procedure one would design for the continuing protection of the activities of foreign powers or their agents."

After his speech, Levi was asked if he agreed with Kelley that some liberties must be sacrificed in the name of national security to preserve the rest.

"That's not the way I would put it," Levi said, adding that he did not know if Kelley had seen the proposed FBI guidelines but said he was sure Kelly would support them.

Under common law only approval of the President or the attorney general is needed for national security wiretaps of foreign agents. Levi said the FBI would report directly to the attorney general if domestic groups posed a violent threat. The attorney general himself would then decide if preventive measures were needed.

If arrests could not be made, presumably because no law had yet been broken, the attorney general could authorize non-violence prevention. Levi said this could mean using informants in obvious surveillance to frighten the groups or denying them access to the scene of the planned crime.

The attorney general would regularly report to Congress on such actions by the FBI.

Levi repeated guidelines already made public in which the FBI would screen itself from White House influence over investigations such as occurred in the Watergate coverup.

White House requests for special investigations would be made in writing and clearly state reasons for the action.

In addition, the FBI would destroy unsolicited information it receives "not alleging serious criminal behavior that ought to be investigated by the FBI or reported to other law enforcement agencies." The FBI would have 90 days to destroy such information.

Surrender? 'Nuts'

Gen. McAuliffe dead at 77

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, who earned a place in American military history with a single word — "Nuts" — died Monday of leukemia, a spokesman for Walter Reed Army Medical Center said Wednesday.

The World War II paratrooper, who entered the Army hospital July 16, was 77.

The small but spunky commander of the 101st Airborne Division sent his famous one-word answer to the commander of German troops surrounding his position at Bastogne, Belgium, during the Battle of the Bulge in December, 1944.

With American forces in the area outnumbered four to one, the German command sent one of its officers carrying a white flag to McAulliffe's position asking for a surrender.

McAuliffe wrote one word — "Nuts" — on a piece of paper and gave it to a courier to take to the German.

"What does that mean?" the German asked.

"It means 'go to hell'," the courier said.

The tide of battle turned and the last desperate German offensive was crushed. Repeated references to the incident irritated McAuliffe in later years. He once told UPI Correspondent James L. Kilgallen: 'I was prouder of the way we conducted the battle when surrounded by Nazi divisions than of the answer to the German demand."

McAuliffe had parachuted into Normandy on D-Day, June 6, 1944, and led a glider echelon in the airborne invasion of Holland the following September.

After Bastogne, he led the 101st Airborne in a race through Germany and Austria to capture Innsbruck and the Brenner Pass and make an historic link-up with American 5th Army troops from Italy.

His combat career brought him the Distinguished Service Cross, the Legion of Merit, two presidential citations, the Croix de Guerre and the French Legion of Honor.

A 1919 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, McAuliffe served in the military for 38 years before retiring in 1956 as commanding general of the U.S. Army in Europe.

McAuliffe joined the American Cyanamid Co. in New York as vice president for engineering and construction, retiring from the firm at the age of 65 in 1963.

He then moved with his wife Helen to Chevy Chase, Md. The couple had two children — a son, John, and a daughter, Patricia Ann.

Services were scheduled for Thursday at Ft. Myer Chapel with burial at Arlington Cemetery.

GEN. ANTHONY C. McAuliffe, the defiant airborne commander who answered "Nuts" to a German ultimatum to surrender at Bastogne in World War II, died of leukemia Monday. He was 77.

Viking Mars probe to be held 10 days

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The Viking Mars probe, already three days behind schedule due to a valve problem, was postponed for another 10 days Wednesday when space engineers discovered a voltage drain from the batteries in the spacecraft's orbiter.

The launch, originally slated for Monday, had been rescheduled for Thursday at 4:08 p.m. after discovery of a defective valve in the rocket's first stage.

Engineers Wednesday discovered that a motorized rotary switch aboard the spacecraft "had moved" since Monday night, resulting in a drain of power from the onboard batteries. The batteries, which normally produce 37 volts of power, had fallen to a 9-volt level Wednesday.

Space agency officials said the entire Viking spacecraft will be removed from atop the Titan-Centaur rocket and replaced with an identical ship that had been scheduled for launch 10 days after the first launch.

Officials said it was not immediately known whether it would take 10 days or more to solve the battery problem and change spacecraft.

The launch of the Viking, designed to search for life on Mars, will be followed by the launch of a twin spacecraft. The first Viking is expected to land on Mars in July, 1976, and the second in September, 1976.

Auto sales run into sharp decline in the past 24 months and talk of a $500 price increase coming in the fall last year had pushed Aug. 1-10 sales to their second highest level in history.

"Almost all the people in the world came in to buy the '74s before the '75s came out," Jerry Richardson, sales manager of Richardson Chevrolet in Houston, Tex., said. "But business hasn't changed much since the announcement this year."

The early August sales drop was greater than most analysts had predicted, with deliveries dropping 21.5 per cent below July 1-10 levels, ending a string of eight consecutive reporting periods in which sales topped the month-earlier period. A 17 per cent drop from early July to early August is considered normal.

The four companies sold 131,218 cars in the eight sales days, compared with 207,624 in nine sales days last year.

Not all sales were off, however. Both Cadillac and Lincoln Continental, luxury cars in the $10,000 price range, set records for an early August period — Cadillac up 5 per cent from a year ago and Continental 60 per cent.

General Motors Corp., meanwhile, the auto industry's pricing leader, announced it will hold price increases on its 1976-model cars to an average $206 so the recovery from the 22-month slump won't be halted.

The $206 jump, or 4.4 per cent, is lower at the retail level than the average 6 per cent increase auto executives had been talking about for the new models that debut this fall.

The price changes ranged from a drop of $211 on the Chevrolet Monza Towne Coupe to an increase of $808 on the sporty Chevrolet Corvette.

American Motors already has begun shipping 1976 models with price hikes averaging 5.8 prr cent, or $200.

The Ford Motor Co. has notified its dealers to begin taking orders from volume fleet customers with the assurance that prices wouldn't be increased by more than 6 per cent. Chrysler has taken no pricing action.

Former crony of Hoffa speculates ex-Teamster rigged disappearance

DETROIT (UPI) — The search for James R. Hoffa entered its third week Wednesday with renewed speculation by a former Hoffa crony that the one-time Teamster Union president may have engineered his own disappearance.

An FBI spokesman said investigators were exploring the theory Hoffa's disappearance was voluntary, but added that so far, "It doesn't stack up any more than a dozen other theories."

Don Vestal, Hoffa's personal secretary until 1961, said he believed Hoffa rigged his own abduction with the knowledge of Teamster leaders to "gain some notoriety" and avoid testifying before a federal grand jury probing the union's pension fund.

Subpoenaed and forced to testify, Hoffa could become the reluctant witness who could place himself and those around him in legal jeopardy, Vestal said.

Vestal said he thinks Hoffa is alive and in voluntary hiding. He says it is unlikely Hoffa was killed or captured.

"He was just too tough. Jimmy was not the kind of man you could stick in the ribs with a pistol and say, 'come with me.' If you did, he'd tell you to do it there and then or take a walk."

Eventually, said Vestal, Hoffa figures he will be forced to testify to will be forced to testify to grand grand juries and congressional committees on everything from mob control of Teamster affairs to trading favors with the Nixon White House.

"He may even want to testify," Vestal said. "But he can't make it look that way, so a temporary disappearance may be his answer."

Hoffa's family has bluntly denied Hoffa would put them "through the agony" of the past two weeks. Other sources acquainted with Hoffa and Teamsters Union affairs said it was unlike the 62-year-old unionist to retreat into hiding.

The Detroit News, quoting a source it said was close to the investigation, reported Wednesday the FBI has been told that Anthony "Tony Jack" Giacalone, a reputed Detroit Mafia enforcer, set up the luncheon meeting Hoffa was headed for July 30, the day he disappeared.

Giacalone then "took great pains" to avoid the rendezvous and establish a strong alibi, the source said.

Hoffa reportedly told his family he was to meet Giacalone, New Jersey crime figure Anthony "Tony Pro" Provenzano and Detroit labor consultant Leonard Schultz at the Machus Red Fox Restaurant.

Later, he reportedly called his wife, Josephine, to say he'd been stood up and would soon return home. He never did.

"There is no doubt that the meeting was arranged by Giacalone, that Hoffa thought he was going to see Giacalone and that Giacalone stood him up," the source said.

Outline strategy to use sun for energy

The federal agency charged with developing new sources of energy Wednesday outlined a three-part strategy to use the sun to supply one-fourth of the nation's energy needs within 45 years. The Energy Research and Development Administration said it was cooperating with industry in a research and development effort to use solar energy for heating and cooling buildings and creating electricity.

By the year 2020, Deputy Assistant Administrator Donald A. Beattie said, solar energy will supply the equivalent of more than 4 million barrels of oil a day — one fourth of the nation's energy demand.

He said "I feel that I have the right, as an individual, to support any kind of organization or philosophy that I feel inclined to . . . as long as it's legal." Coors first was nominated to the board by former President Richard Nixon. President Ford waited about six months and resubmitted the nomination.

• Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., on a congressional tour of China, says his group hopes to open serious discussions with the Chinese about a cooperative project similar to the space mission with the Russians. Percy did not elaborate about the nature of such a project.

• White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Wednesday he assumed President Ford will appeal to the Supreme Court a lower court ruling that his tariff on imported oil is illegal. He is expected to discuss the situation with Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb. Meanwhile, the president played his third round of golf in Vail, Colo., despite a light but steady drizzle.

Middle-aged suburbanites undergo 98% of abortions

About 98 per cent of women who get nontherapeutic abortions at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, are married, middle-aged suburban residents, a hospital official said Wednesday.

"They are the women who feel having an abortion is the responsible decision to make in regards to the size of their families," said L. J. Wylie, vice president of human relations and resources at the hospital.

Since May 1974, the hopsital has been the only hospital in the Northwest suburbs to allow its doctors to use hospital facilities to perform nontherapuetic abortions in the first three months of pregnancy.

HOSPITAL OFFICIALS would not release the number of nontherapeutic abortions performed at the hospital but Wylie called it "a low incidence."

An estimated 25,000 abortions were performed in Illinois last year but a state public health official said the state has no breakdowns for the Chicago area.

"We have talked it over in administration and we feel we do not have any interest in holding back the statistics," Wylie said. "But we want to protect the privacy of those who elect the procedure. Giving statistics tends to give people on either side ammunition for their cause."

Wylie said the hospital has come under little criticism for allowing abortions. He said right after the decision was made the hospital "heard from both the pros and the cons."

To have a nontherapeutic abortion at the hospital, a patient must be admitted by a physician on staff. Wylie said most women opting for abortion decide well in advance of the three-month deadline and that the hospital has referred "borderline cases" elsewhere. He also said most women who choose abortion at the hospital are from the Northwest and northern suburbs.

IN SETTING the abortion policy, hospital officials emphasized the need for counseling of husband and wife.

"We feel the counseling can be developed further but that it has played an important part for the women who choose abortion," Wylie said.

The hospital's abortion policy does not extend to the second trimester of pregnancy because of health risks, Wylie said. He said therapeutic abortions continue to be performed during the second trimester.

The hospital's policy requires parental consent for a girl under 18 years old seeking a nontherapeutic abortion. The policy also states consent be obtained from the father whenever possible.

Ivy Hill Village annex, zoning urged

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission Wednesday approved annexation and rezoning of 49 acres at Wind sor Drive and Palatine Road.

The land is the site of the proposed Ivy Hill Village subdivision, subject of extended hearings and negotiations between various developers and neighbors.

The commission did not consider the planned development at the Wednesday meeting. Richard Pearlman, attorney representing the developers, said the final plans for the subdivision have yet to be prepared.

THE DEVELOPER, Melvin Lerman, is seeking zoning for single-family houses on the site. He has proposed 102 houses for the site.

Plans for Ivy Hill Village have undergone extensive revisions over the last three years. Earlier developers proposed an apartment development on the site.

The proposal drew heated objections from residents of nearby Ivy Hill subdivision. Residents, who often filled earlier hearings with overflow crowds, said the apartments were not in keeping with the character of the area and would lower property values in addition to overburdening public services, utilities and roads.

The original developers, Meister-Neiberg, withdrew their plans to build the 315-apartment units, and Lerman picked up the option in late 1974. Lerman came to the village with his single-family homes subdivision plans earlier this year.

The matter now will go to the village board for final action.

'Oliver' slated at school

"Oliver," a musical by Lionel Bart, will be presented Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Friendship Junior High School, 550 W. Elizabeth, Des Plaines.

Produced by the Mount Prospect Park District, performances will be at 8 p.m. each day with a 1 p.m. matinee on Saturday. Tickets are $1.50 and will be on sale at the door or at the Lions Park Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St., Mount Prospect.

Podiatrist Dr. Jerome Mann of Arlington Heights Monday will tell Mount Prospect senior citizens how to care for their feet.

The lecture is part of a monthly series on health-related subjects given at 1 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 S. See-Gwun Ave., Mount Prospect.

School bells say time to pay fees

High school students in Arlington Heights face the grim reality that summer is almost over. Fee payment days start Friday at most high schools.

Students must pay required fees to receive class schedules and identification cards. Fees in High School Dist. 214 include $14 for textbook rental, up $2 from last year. Seniors also must pay a $4.50 fee at the beginning of the year for graduation cap and gown rental.

Optional fees include towel service, which costs $5.25 per year and the yearbook, which ranges between $5 and $6. District student athletic passes are $5.

Insurance also is being sold to students. Cost is $6 for girls and $8 for boys for school-day coverage. Twenty-four-hour coverage costs $17 for girls and $22 for boys. Football coverage costs an additional $13.

School starts at all Dist. 214 schools on Tuesday, Sept. 2.

Those new to the area are asked to contact their school offices to register as soon as possible. Freshmen should bring completed physical examination forms and proof of immunizations. All students should bring emergency health and accident forms signed by parents.

Fee payment times for individual schools are as follows:

• Arlington: Those participating in fall sports register Friday from 1 to 3:30 p.m at the school, 502 W. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights. Others register starting Monday from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Seniors pay fees Monday; juniors pay Tuesday; sophomores, Wednesday, and freshmen, Thursday, Aug. 21. Makeup registration day will be Friday, Aug. 22, at Arlington.

• Buffalo Grove: Fall athletes register from 8:30 a.m. to noon Friday at the school, Dundee and Arlington Heights roads, Buffalo Grove.

All others register starting Monday from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Seniors pay Monday juniors, Tuesday; sophomores, Wednesday and freshmen, Thursday. Makeup registration day will be from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 23.

• Hersey: Fall athletes register from 8 to 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the school, 1900 E. Thomas, Arlington Heights. All others pay fees starting Monday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Seniors pay Monday; juniors, Tuesday; sophomores, Wednesday, and freshmen, Thursday. Makeup payment day will be Friday, Aug. 22.

• Rolling Meadows: Fall athletes pay fees from 1 to 4 p.m. Friday at the school, 2901 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows. Others pay fees starting Monday, with seniors from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Juniors pay Tuesday; sophomores, Wednesday, and freshmen, Thursday, Aug. 21. Makeup fee payment day will be Friday, Aug. 22.

• Prospect: Fall athletes sign up and pay fees from 8 a.m to 4 p.m. Friday at the school, 801 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect. Others pay fees starting Monday with seniors from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Juniors pay Tuesday; sophomores, Wednesday, and freshmen, Thursday. Makeup registration day at Prospect is Friday, Aug. 22.

• Forest View: Registration is completely by mail, but several hundred students have not returned their fee payments yet and are overdue, a school spokesman said.

Those new to the area are asked to contact the school to register and pay fees. The school is at 2121 S. Goebbert Rd., Arlington Heights.

Halas gives support for arena referendum

in the years ahead."

Madison Square Garden paid $1.5 million in real estate taxes on its Arlington Park property last year, and another $150,000 in hotel and sales taxes, Halas said.

"This is important money in the Arlington Heights economy, but this large amount pales when you consider the potential benefits to Arlington Heights when the race track property is fully and finally developed."

The first step in the development, which includes 2,300 apartments, office and light industrial buildings, is construction of the stadium, he said.

Halas noted local objections to the large crowds and traffic the stadium would generate. "It has been my experience that problems can accompany large crowds, whether at a football game or a Fourth of July picnic, unless they are properly managed," he said.

"WE BELIEVE the unknown negative of a Sunday football crowd is far outweighed on the scale of community progress by the known plus that such a stadium will create."

Halas said one Arlington Heights resident, Stanley Stec, 1307 N. Yale Ave., at a recent public meeting, asked why Bears officials had not proposed a referendum on the stadium.

"Such action on my part would have been highly improper at that time," Halas said. "Now that Mr. Ryan has called for a referendum, I am free to endorse his action."

Halas repeated his promise not to bring the Chicago Bears to Arlington Heights unless the team is welcome by village residents.

"For our part, we will be good neighbors and provide a football team of which we can all be proud," he said.

"I hope that Mr. Ryan, by calling for a referendum, will stimulate the people of Arlington Heights to act in a spirited and cooperative fashion to make the stadium a reality."

School signups begin Aug. 21

Students in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 may register and pay book rental fees Aug. 21-22 at all district schools.

All elementary schools and Holmes Junior High School will be open from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. on both registration days. Students attending Cooper Junior High School may register Aug. 18, 20 or 22 from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. or Aug. 19 from 9 a.m. to noon. Students who will attend London Junior High School may register Aug. 20, 21 or 22 from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m.

Parents may register all their children at one school, but must pick up junior schedules at the junior high their child will attend.

Children who attended Dist. 21 schools last year will fill out registration forms that will be provided. Kindergartners or children new to the district also must bring an official birth certificate with them.

Book fees are $6 for kindergartners and $10 for all other grades. There is an optional towel service available at the junior high schools for $5.60 a year.

The first day of school is Friday, Aug. 29, from 9 a.m. to noon.

TIMOTHY PHILLIPS escaped injury Wednesday when he crash landed his small biplane on the school grounds of Plum Grove School.

'This is my first crash'

by JAMES VESELY

Timothy Phillips of Palatine had his tiny biplane up to 1,800 feet when the engine quit so the 28-year-old pilot made a pancake landing in the grassy field next to Plum Grove School, Rolling Meadows, Wednesday morning.

Phillips said the airplane's engine stopped as he was over Ill. Rte. 53 and Kirchoff Road and he just was able to clear the power lines on Meacham Road to make his belly-flop in the field.

"I don't know what happened, exactly," the pilot said as he surveyed the damage to his plane, "but I sure am going to find out before I take it up again."

Damage to the twin-winged Smith Miniplane was not extensive. The plane's propeller was bent from striking the ground and the small landing gear was spread out under the plane as though it gave way under the impact of the landing. The plane made a 60-foot long gash in the field before it came to rest.

PHILLIPS CALMLY lit a cigaret and squinted at the sky while a group of gawkers gathered around the downed craft on the school grounds at Old Plum Grove and Meacham roads.

"Oh, I love these small planes," said Mrs. Rick Cooley, 271 W. Sunset, Palatine township. Mrs. Cooley is the wife of a United Airlines pilot and is an airplane owner herself.

"Wouldn't it be fun to fly one of these with the open cockpit and go from town to town?" she said. "I'd just like to take it home with me."

Robert Kole, 324 Sunset, Palatine township, made a serious offer. He told Pnillips he could tow the small plane into Kole's backyard and fix it there, but the pilot said he thought he could take his airplane apart right on the spot.

Rolling Meadows policemen at the scene were in good humor about the incident, too. They reported the crash to the Federal Aviation Administration but their sympathies seemed to be with the young pilot. Later, several onlookers and Patrolman Jerry Peterson helped lift the airplane while Phillips tied the landing gear together with a piece of rope.

School tax veto to be asked

proved by the voters, would be implemented as needed in conjunction with the tax rate decrease required by the state in High School Dist. 214.

HE SAID THE administration is recommending the board issue teachers' orders to meet its immediate financial problems, because a tax increase would not bring additional revenue to the district for another year.

Teachers' orders are a method of borrowing money to pay teachers' salaries. A tax increase between 10 cents and 40 cents would result because the orders are paid back through the bond and interest fund.

Bardwell said the district would have to issue between $1.5 to $2 million of teachers' orders to meet its debts this year. The board can control the amount of tax increase through the length of time used to pay back the orders.

Taxpayers can prevent the district from issuing teachers' orders if 10 per cent of the district voters sign a petition to hold a referendum to stop issuing the orders, and the referendum is approved.

2 youths charged in Bricklin theft

Two Arlington Heights residents were charged with auto theft Wednesday for allegedly stealing a $10,500 Bricklin from Martin J. Kelly Oldsmobile, 1516 W. Northwest Hwy.

Charged were Terry Filczer, 17, of 924 N. Fernandez Ave., and Kimberly Hertz, 17, of 107 W. Cedar St. They were arrested Tuesday by state police in Pontiac, Ill., police said.

The 1975 Bricklin was stolen during the weekend from the car dealership, police reported. Filczer was being held in the Arlington Heights lockup in lieu of $10,000 bond, and Miss Hertz was being held in lieu of $7,500 bond.

Picnics n politics set for weekend

Three area political organizations will sponsor picnics this weekend.

Activities will include:

• The Wheeling Township Regular Democratic Organization picnic from noon to 7 p.m. Saturday at Dam No. 1 in the County Forest Preserve near Wheeling.

Committeeman Donald L. Norman said the picnic will feature games and prizes for children, music and dancing, and door prizes.

• The Regular Republican Organization of Elk Grove Township picnic begins at 1 p.m. Sunday at Busse Woods, Grove 6B, Elk Grove Township.

Committeeman Carl Hansen predicted that more than 1,000 persons will attend the picnic which includes a menu of sirloin of beef and corn-on-the-cob dinner. Tickets are $2.75 for adults and $1.75 for children. Beer and pop will be provided.

Tickets are available at GOP township headquarters or from precinct captains, Hansen said.

• The Palatine Township Democratic Club picnic will be held from 2 to 7 p.m. Sunday at Shoe Factory Lake Woods Grove near Elgin. Tickets are $3 per family and include the cost of beverages and ice cream.

County Clerk Stanley T. Kusper will attend the picnic, Club Pres. Geroge J. Fruzyan III said.

Correction

The Northwest Suburban Bar Assn. was incorrectly identified in the recent Herald series, "Justice and the Drunken Driver," as finding two Circuit Court associate judges, Albert H. LaPlante and Simon S. Porter, not qualified for retention.

LaPlante and Porter were rated unqualified in May by the Chicago Bar Assn. The Northwest Suburban Bar Assn. conducted a controversial poll last spring, when 122 associate judges faced retention voting, and recommended dismissal of two other associate judges, John J. Limperis and James Maher Jr. Porter and LaPlante were named qualified by the Northwest Suburban Bar Assn.

WIND POWER may produce electricity for home heating and lighting needs in the 21st Century. Three windmill contraptions are pictured in National Wildlife Magazine illustrations.

'Women Working' topic of radio show

"Women Working" is the "Focus: Northwest" show to be broadcast Sunday at 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. on WWMM, 92.7 FM.

Program narrator Harriet Kandelman of Harper College, will lead a discussion with Doe Hentschel, program development consultant and former director of community services at Harper College; Nancy J. Miller, executive director, Women's Inc., Hinsdale; and Mary L. Edgren, Edgren Enterprises, Schaumburg.

Wind power's future promising for Chicago?

by LEA TONKIN

Breezy cities should benefit from the use of windmills as an energy resource, predicts Russell Peterson, chairman of the President's Council on Environmental Quality. Speaking at a recent convention in Des Moines, Ia., Peterson said "The switch to wind power will, of course, favor some locations over others: Chicago will be the Saudi Arabia of the 21st Century."

Not so; says the National Wildlife Federation. In an article in the current issue of the federation's National Wildlife magazine, Chicago finished 10th among 32 metropolitan areas tested for wind power potential. Based on observations by the National Weather Service during a 10-year period, the magazine discovered that Fargo, N.D., is the U.S. city where the wind blows hardest. Average miles per hour wind speed at Fargo is 14.4, compared to 11.2 rating in Chicago. Wichita, Boston, New York, Fort Worth, Des Moines, Honolulu, Milwaukee and Cleveland also are windier cities than Chicago.

Among the cities checked by the magazine, Los Angeles and Anchorage, each with an average wind velocity of 6.8 m.p.h. are the least desirable sites for power-producing windmills.

The promise of electric power generation by windmills is largely ignored in the U.S. by federal energy budget planners, the article said. The government awarded a $1 million contract for preliminary design of large wind energy systems, however. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) is using the funds to build a windmill with 62-foot blades to be mounted atop a 100-foot tower near Sandusky, Ohio. The device is expected to produce 100 kilowatts of power. At least five U.S. universities and the city of Honolulu are researching wind power potential.

The NWF article divides wind power projects into three categories; small windmills for remote areas, medium-size generators for small communities and large generators operated by utilities.

A giant windmill contraption built atop 2,000 foot Grandpa's Knob in Vermont generated up to 1,250 kilowatts of power before it conked out in the 1940s. This prompted the design of a 6,500 kilowatt generator by a government engineer, but the windmill was never built. The article said at least one wind power enthusiast predicts there will be some 2,000 huge windmills built in the U.S. by the year 2000.

Historic trees listed

Let's give more recognition to trees, says the North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District, Lake Zurich. The agency reminds the public that trees offer more than ornamental rewards.

A full-size tree absorbs carbon monoxide and produces enough oxygen to offset one person's breathing. Trees reduce noise pollution caused by jets and highway congestion. The cooling power of a large tree compares to that of 10 room-size air conditioners in operation 20 hours a day.

The agency adds that trees have historical significance importance in Illinois. The Illinois Dept. of Conservation seeks information on unusual trees or those associated with an historical event. It's part of a nationwide search for trees to be listed in the Bicentennial publication, "Famous and Historic Trees of the United States." Categories include trees associated with the development of the nation, education, art, literature, law, science, scenic locations and early forestry and conservation programs. For additional information on the historic tree list, write: Dept. of Conservation, Division of Forestry, 605 State Office Building, Springfield, Ill. 62706.

PEP meeting Aug. 28

The Pollution and Environmental Problems, Inc. (PEP) environmental organization will meet Aug. 28 at the Palatine Village Hall, Palatine. The meeting will start at 8 p.m.

Water rules before panel

The Illinois Pollution Control Board intends to take final action on proposed standards for discharges into cooling lakes at its meeting today. The proposals were published Feb. 18 and June 19 in the "Governmental Register."

The Referendum — views on who's gonna lose...

Education today

by Wandalyn Rice

Some news stories, like bad pennies, keep coming back no matter what anyone does about them.

And in the suburbs one of those stories is the one about The Referendum.

The Referendum may be run by almost any taxing body at almost any time — and it usually means someone wants more money from the taxpayers.

At least once a year someone is likely to lament, often in a letter to this paper's Fence Post, that every taxing body holds its referendum different days and the voters end up traipsing to the polls once a week to vote "No" on a myriad of issues.

That may well happen again this fall, since Arlington Heights will vote on whether to allow the Bears into town (I wonder what the open housing people will say to that), the Palatine Fire District will have a vote Sept. 9 and other taxing bodies undoubtedly will have their own referendums.

But one thing is sure already: Sept. 27 is going to get crowded.

THAT DAY, Harper College will have a referendum to raise money to buy a second site and finish construction on the Palatine campus. About $12 million is needed, but the money will be raised through bonds and probably will raise taxes no more than one-half cent per $100 assessed valuation, an amount so small most voters won't notice it.

Also, Sept. 27, voters in Palatine and Inverness will decide whether Inverness should join the Palatine Library District. If that village joins, the library district tax rates in Inverness will go up 23 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

This week, it began to look like Sept. 27 would have still another referendum, with Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 discussing the possibility of asking for a tax rate increase that date. Although the Dist. 59 board has not set the amount of the proposed increase, it is considering 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation, an amount that certainly would be noticed by any taxpayer.

With all this crowding the last Saturday in September, a question arises: What effect will each referendum have on the other? Many voters will vote on more than one issue. The may get into a "No" vote mood on one proposal and vote against others.

FOR EXAMPLE, Dist. 59 voters, who have not approved a tax rate increase for that district since the late 1960s, probably won't take kindly to a 40-cent hike. This could make life much more difficult for Harper, even though the proposed increase for Harper is smaller.

Voters are reluctant to vote "Yes" on anything, and when they're asked to decide on something that makes them angry — like Dist. 59's proposal — they are even less likely to turn around and vote "Yes" on another issue.

The Dist. 59 referendum probably means Harper will be hardpressed to pass its referendum in Elk Grove Township. And from a strategic point of view, college officials will try to get out the "Yes" votes in the other three townships in the college district.

Sometime late on the evening of Sept. 27, the supporters of the Harper referendum will find out if it works. And perhaps, if they lose, they will be able to take comfort in the fact they are not the only ones to lose a referendum that day.

Ask Andy

Long neck keeps giraffe alive

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Ruth Dille, 11, of Visalia, Calif., for her question:

WHY DOES A GIRAFFE HAVE SUCH A LONG NECK?

The stately giraffe belongs to Africa, and we only get a chance to see him in a zoo. Then we lean back with mouth agape, as our eyes travel up his long legs and even longer neck. From his hoofs to the button-type horns on his handsome head, he may stand more than 18 feet tall — which makes him the tallest animal in the world.

The giraffe's skyscraper neck may be 6 feet or so long. Yet it is supported by only seven vertebra bones, the same number as in the neck of a horse or cow. Nevertheless, it is a very supple neck and useful for all sorts of maneuvers. In fact, the giraffe could not survive without it on the semiarid plains of Africa. At least not without changing his entire lifestyle.

Perhaps it is most useful at feeding time, for the giraffe's favorite food is the boughs of fairly tall acacia trees. His neck enables him to reach up high with no trouble at all. Often a traveler can tell where the tall fellow has been, for the trees have hourglass waists, high above the ground.

A giraffe gathers the prickly acacia twigs in his mobile lips, curving his long supple neck to avoid scratches. When grass is plentiful he bends his head to graze and he also must bend down to drink. His neck is not quite long enough to enable his head to touch the ground. He solves this problem by spreading his front legs and may even sink to his knees.

He travels around with a group of friends and relatives, and they live in lion territory. He defends himself with mighty kicks of his hard hooves — and the average lion hesitates to attack an adult giraffe. Nevertheless, it is wise to stay on the safe side of trouble. The giraffe's eyes are high on his head and now and then he pauses to survey the scenery. His long neck enables him to see far and wide in all directions. When he spots a prowling lion, the whole herd takes off in a cloud of dust.

A baby giraffe stands 6 feet tall, and his mother may twine her supple neck around him to show affection. Adult giraffes often twine their necks around each other, though nobody is sure why. This strange necking game usually is between a pair of adult males, and it often gets quite rough. Perhaps this is the way they bash each other around to decide which rival is the boss.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Darlene Szklarski, 8, of Merrillville, Ind., for her question:

HOW DID MERMAIDS GET SUCH A NAME?

The first part of this strange name is a word for the sea. The second part means lovely young ladies. All together it means lovely ladies that belong to the sea. Of course, we know that no humans live entirely in the sea. So real mermaids insisted they had fish tails instead of legs — which is downright impossible.

Nevertheless, the men on old sailing ships often were certain they saw mermaids, lolling along the rocky shores and hiding in shallow waters. What they really saw may have been a family of sunbathing seals in the distance. Or maybe they saw a big bulky manatee, half-hidden in the waterweeds. Many people came to believe in mermaids because those old tales were told again and again.

Submarine trump torpedoes this defense

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

One of the standard book plays is what might well be described as the submarine trump play. This play consists of leading a low trump from both hands so as to continue to hold full control.

This hand from "Test Your Bridge" is a simple illustration of this play.

South is faced with a sure loser in trumps at his six-heart contract. He can't afford to lose another trick so he must ruff the spade lead. If he proceeds to cash the ace and king of trumps, he will have to lose a spade later on, unless something especially good happens in the minor suits.

There are two other ways to play the hand and both work. One is to lead a diamond to the ace, ruff a spade, diamond to the king, ruff the last spade, club to the ace and then lead trumps.

The simpler play is to submarine a trump immediately. Then draw trumps and discard the last two spades on dummy's clubs.

Herald opinion

We support stadium vote

Arlington Heights Village Pres. James T. Ryan has taken a rational and sensible step in asking that the decision on the Bears' stadium be handed to the voters.

In an atmosphere increasingly overheated by the clamor about the $30 million stadium and the problems it might bring to the Northwest suburbs, Ryan's recommendation for a binding referendum shows an understanding of the scale of the conflict.

Ryan's recommendation must now be acted upon by the village board. It is expected to approve his proposal, and the vote probably will take place in October or November.

JAMES T. RYAN

When Arlington Heights residents vote "yes" or "no," they'll be voting directly on whether to finance the stadium through bonds paid solely from stadium revenue. If the majority votes "no," then the stadium most likely will not be built on Arlington Park race track property at all.

But as Ryan told a press conference Tuesday, the issue extends far beyond funding, for this $30 million project, the largest single project in village history, has raised a host of widely-debated questions about its impact on the future of the neighboring suburbs.

Such problems as traffic congestion, overcrowding and the trappings which inevitably accompany a major sports event have aroused local residents ever since plans for the stadium were unveiled earlier this year.

If this were an ordinary project, nine trustees of Arlington Heights would be abandoning their responsibilities if they allowed a referendum. But the Bears' stadium is a matter obviously far removed from the routine zoning decisions which confront village government every week.

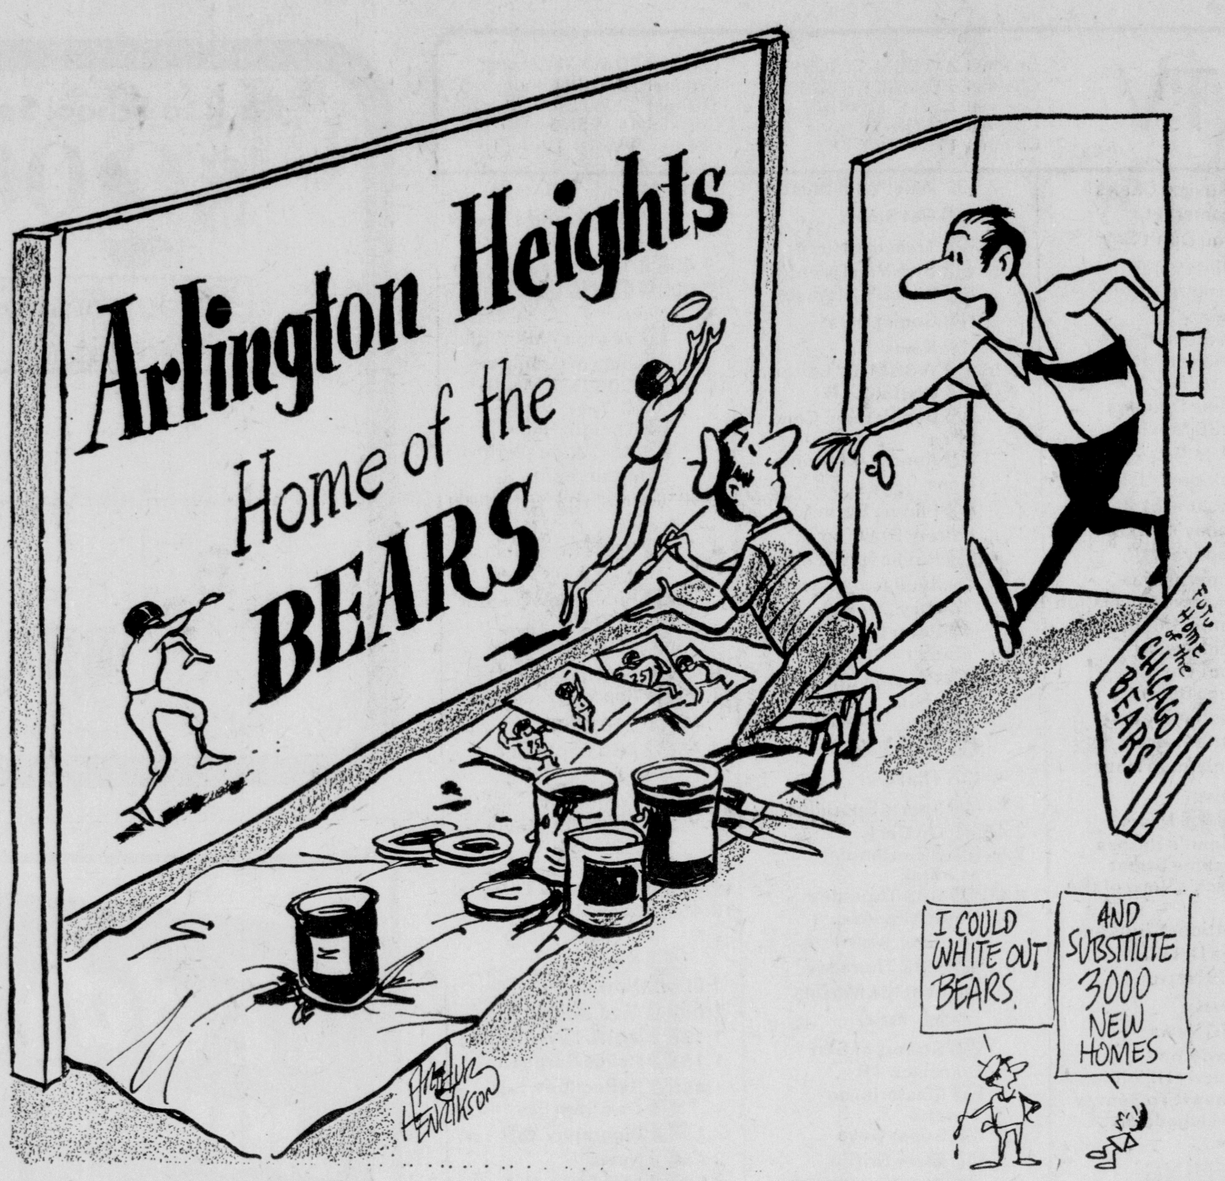
In the coming months, all parties to the issue — village government, the Chicago Bears and the Madison Square Garden Corp. — must discuss the issues as completely as possible with the public.

The village board, in particular, must lead the discussion. In the past, it has sponsored aggressive campaigns to sell smaller bond issues; the challenge of informing the electorate is far greater this time, but it is one that responsible village government must meet.

Finally, the voters of Arlington Heights have a special responsibility to examine critically the arguments offered by proponents and opponents alike. We hope for a passionless and rational debate that covers adequately all facets of the issue; a matter of this monumental importance to the entire Northwest suburbs demands such a debate.

Tomorrow . . .

EDITORIAL: We support the continued study of a municipally-owned airport in Schaumburg.



Hold it! The people are going to vote on financing the stadium!

Food pricing ordinance backed

Science fiction can be fun when it sets one to imagining how things might be, but when a monster appears it becomes a horror story.

The food industry has spent a lot of time and money putting together a system called the Universal Produce Code. This explains all those computer-coded sets of bars and numbers on labels of products you're bringing home from the grocery store. Go check your kitchen cabinets and look at them.

When store is operating with this system, each product with this code will be slid across a "reader" and rung up on your register tape without the checker punching any buttons. The price for that can or box will come from the computer and you will pay it. Hopefully the price will be the same as stamped on the can or box. Then if you couldn't keep up with the checker (they're going much faster now) you can compare each item to your receipt when you get home. Granted, that's extra work, but one time I thought my grocery bill was unusually high and found I'd gotten charged $9.40 for a 94-cent jar. Now I compare to the receipt frequently. The point is that I can.

Almost all things sold in a grocery store now have prices stamped on, except for very small items such as gum, candy bars and in some instances baby food jars sold from bins. This means we are now paying for this "service."

Once the laser scanner is put into operation in a store (and all stores in Des Plaines are set up for it), a price on each item will not be necessary because the checker doesn't need it. The computer is recording and charging you. The price will only be on the shelf which means you leave it at the store when you go home and want to compare your receipt.

This also means that prices can be changed instantaneously with a phone call. That's quicker than the time it takes to take something off a shelf and get to the register with it. By the time you've finished shopping several prices can have gone up. You are not guaranteed the shelf price.

Your Des Plaines City Council is considering an ordinance to compel the grocery stores in Des Plaines to continue individual item pricing after these computer check-outs are in operation.

Please see the implications of eliminating item pricing and encourage your aldermen to support this ordinance. Chicago, Franklin Park and Skokie have passed such ordinances with people like us, the buyers, in mind.

Hits ozone column

Re: Dick West column "Fear Not! We Can Save Shrinking Ozone Layer":

I am writing you this letter regarding your column in the Aug. 6 Rolling Meadows Herald. I am not a person who normally writes letters to editors regarding newspaper reporting. However, this article is so blatantly misleading and erroneous that I felt I must draw it to your attention.

I am 100 per cent behind responsible freedom of the press and I realize the many values that this country had derived from reporting the facts to the public. I very urgently request that before you print an article of this type in the future you obtain the facts and not take the recent tact of many reporters in trying to impress the public with a sensational panic-type article which is simply not true.

Rather than itemize all of the reasons why this article is erroneous, I would encourage you or someone to contact myself so that you may "put the record straight." I will be happy to discuss this matter with you at any time and refer you to experts in the field. You are not doing the public a service, but on the contrary a great disservice by printing an article as misleading as the one in today's paper. I strongly suggest that another article be printed in the near future which states the true facts.

House, once ignored, enters U.S. spotlight

by GENE BERNHARDT

WASHINGTON — There were bitter partisan recriminations as Congress pushed toward its month-long, August vacation, among them this comment from House GOP leader John Rhodes: "I do not believe it is one of the finest hours of the House of Representatives."

Rhodes had his reason — the administration's desperately sought aid to Turkey bill was about to be put over until September. But the remark was not entirely accurate about the position of what some of the uniformed refer to as the "lower house."

The "larger body" of Congress, long ignored in the media's fascination with the Senate, has emerged over the last year and a half as the place where the action is in the nation's bicameral legislature.

The much-publicized veto confrontation with President Ford has centered totally in the House, necessarily, of course, because eight of the nine bills he rejected had House numbers which determines where the first effort to override will be made.

But even in the one case where the Senate voted first, the pre-vote attention still focused on what the House would do.

The 75-member freshman Democratic class attracted the media to the House at the start of the 94th Congress in January, particularly the role of the newcomers in the unprecedented action of ousting old time committee chairmen, an astounding display of irreverence toward the seniority system.

More recently, the urgent energy issue has focused totally in the House which twice turned down Ford's proposals on oil decontrol, the heart of the energy fight with the White House.

Also on the Turkey issue, with the Senate giving Ford what he asked by a narrow one-vote margin, the House again refused to go along.

The role of the often unruly and sometimes unmanageable 435-member House has traditionally been to stand in the shadow of the Senate and its "big picture" status as it endlessly debates the major problems of the nation and the world.

The spotlight started to shift with the televised proceedings of the House Judiciary Committee as it considered impeachment of Richard M. Nixon.

Even before impeachment, Americans realized that there is a House of Representatives when one of its members was lifted from near anonymity as House Republican leader to the vice presidency and the eventual assumption of the presidency.

Last year's historic developments affecting the nation's top two elective offices and this year's political activism have prompted columnists to turn frequently to key House members for analysis of issues, and television talk shows feature more House members than senators.

The rarefied air of national attention encouraged one representative to do the unthinkable, run for his party's presidential nomination. Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., is still an active and viable candidate despite the fact he is not a member of that traditional birthplace of such candidacies, the Senate.

Whether what it does is right or wrong, the House of Representatives is getting long overdue recognition as an equal partner in that institution called Congress.

NBC-TV's 'The Bird' to fade from screens

Elsie the Borden Cow, Dino the Sinclair dinosaur and RCA Victor's Little Nipper ("His Master's Voice"), move over. You'll soon have another companion in that commercial menagerie in the great beyond.

The new entry is a very special peacock, none other than TV's peacock.

For 19 years its riot of color has brightened the lives of countless millions of TV viewers. At one point it rippled its tail feathers 100 times a week, to the tune of "The following program is brought to you in living color on NBC."

Now, the bird's feathers are faded with misuse, for NBC uses its plumage only twice a day. Color TV is now in almost everyone's home, so this winter the peacock will vanish, with nary a frantic departing squawk, from the TV screen.

The bird has fallen prey to the worst of its natural enemies; network executives on a safari in search of a "new look" to sell more and more color TVs. So, bye bye, birdie; we'll see no reruns of your proud plumage on the late, late show.

Lutherans may form new independent synod

Members of Evangelical Lutherans in Mission (ELIM), the dissident moderate group within the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, began the first steps toward forming a new, independent synod at the group's third annual convention in Chicago.

About 2,000 members of ELIM from around the country heard their president, Samuel J. Roth, call the convention the "crunch point" for the organization.

ELIM was officially declared "schismatic" by the Missouri Synod's national convention last month in Anaheim, Calif. The group was formed three years ago to protest decisions made by the synod and to support teachers and students at the synod's Concordia Seminary in St. Louis who had been charged with teaching "false doctrine."

Students and teachers of the seminary have since formed a Seminary-in-exile (Seminex). The charges against the seminary involve the insistence of the synod president J.A.O. Preus and other conservatives in a literal interpretation of the Bible.

IN HIS SPEECH to the ELIM convention, Roth said the results of the Anaheim convention were "repressive." He said, "I believe the vast majority of ELIM people want to put the battle in Missouri behind them. They are convinced that political struggle is fruitless and ultimately destructive. They are unwilling to fight fire with fire."

The convention also heard a declaration signed by the eight presidents of Missouri Synod districts who were censured by the Anaheim convention for ordaining Seminex graduates.

The statement, read by the Rev. Paul Jacobs of the California and Nevada district, said, "When the harsh, arbitrary and oppressive decisions of Anaheim produce such division, the responsibility will rest directly upon the delegates who made those decisions and the leaders who encouraged those decisions despite our earnest and prayerful protests."

Down on the farm ain't the same anymore

BUFFALO, W.Va. (UPI) — Time was when the American farmer awoke before dawn, gulped his eggs and coffee, and headed out, armed with simple tools, to work the "back 40" with a crew of field hands, and, if he had time, scanned the Farmer's Almanac.

Lee Gritt still rises early on his farm, but scarcely resembles his stereotyped 19th Century predecessors.

Gritt has a bachelor of science degree in agriculture from West Virginia University and prefers the Wall Street Journal to the Almanac.

What's more, the 57-year-old Putnam Countian foresees the day when small-time farming will be replaced by huge corporations.

"IT WOULD TAKE $200,000 in working capital to start a farming operation today," he estimates, adding that a young man can't start a farm unless his father left him the land and some cash.

Gritt uses some 40 sophisticated machines, worth more than $100,000, on his six tracts that add up to 2,500 acres.

"A successful farmer today has to do as they do in big business," he explains. "And that is to use machine power instead of manpower wherever possible. I have one full-time hired hand, but hire others only on a seasonal basis."

Some day, Gritt believes, the small farm will no longer thrive.

"BIG CORPORATIONS will be operating the farm business and production will remain adequate," he says. "No one in the country will starve."

There are 25,000 persons categorized as farmers in West Virginia, but only some 500 earn a living on the farm. The others do it as a hobby, holding jobs in cities.

"What's happening on the market each day is vital to me," Gritt says, explaining why he reads the Journal. "I raise all my crops to sell as feed grains. If wheat and barley are going down in price, for example, I may have to alter my operations to compensate.

"The market moves at a fast pace and to stay in the running, you must stay informed."

Anxiety can cause drop in blood sugar

Hypoglycemia is a myth. So says the American Medical Assn. in an article in Cosmopolitan. A doctor on the morning TV program in this country (Canada) dismissed it as some people have anxiety attacks.

Well, I have hypoglycemia and my handicap is worsened considerably because most medical people have the same attitude. Now, my question to you is, how come there is resistance in large part to hypoglycemia? It certainly makes things very much more difficult for people such as myself.

You have a legitimate complaint. I didn't see the article you mentioned, but it is true that the AMA and other organizations have issued public statements to the effect that hypoglycemia is uncommon. However, these organizations know full well that hypoglycemia does exist. The point is that a lot of things being called hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) are not that.

I think the AMA and other organizations have issued public statements to try to protect the public from a fad. A diagnosis of low blood sugar had become a wastebasket catchall diagnosis for everything from juvenile delinquency to sexual problems. It doesn't cause either.

The public goes through fads for illnesses. Not long ago it was common to blame every symptom of depression, anxiety, or other difficulties in middle-aged women on the menopause. In recent years hypoglycemia has replaced menopause as the fad diagnosis.

The problem is hypoglycemia is made worse by many non-medical, self-appointed experts providing erroneous information on the subject to the public. You can read that a level of blood sugar below 90 means you have hypoglycemia, a statement made by one such writer on nutrition, which is completely without scientific basis and only showed her lack of knowledge.

Nature played a trick on us in that anxiety causes a release of adrenaline, and when your blood sugar does fall, a way to raise the level is by releasing adrenaline which in turn releases glucose from the body stores. So both hypoglycemia and anxiety cause adrenaline release, and the adrenaline release causes a lot of the symptons. The difficult is in sorting out whether the patient has anxiety or hypoglycemia.

The treatment is obviously different. In those rare cases of a tumor of the islet of Langerhans with hypoglycemia, the treatment is surgery. In cases where hypoglycemia is caused by removal of part of the stomach, the treatment is a special diet program. So, yes, the medical profession has long taught the problems of hypoglycemia and does not deny its existence, rather the desire to be sure that hypoglycemia is the problem and not treat depression, anxiety and other situational problems with a fad diet while ignoring the real problem.

The doctor says

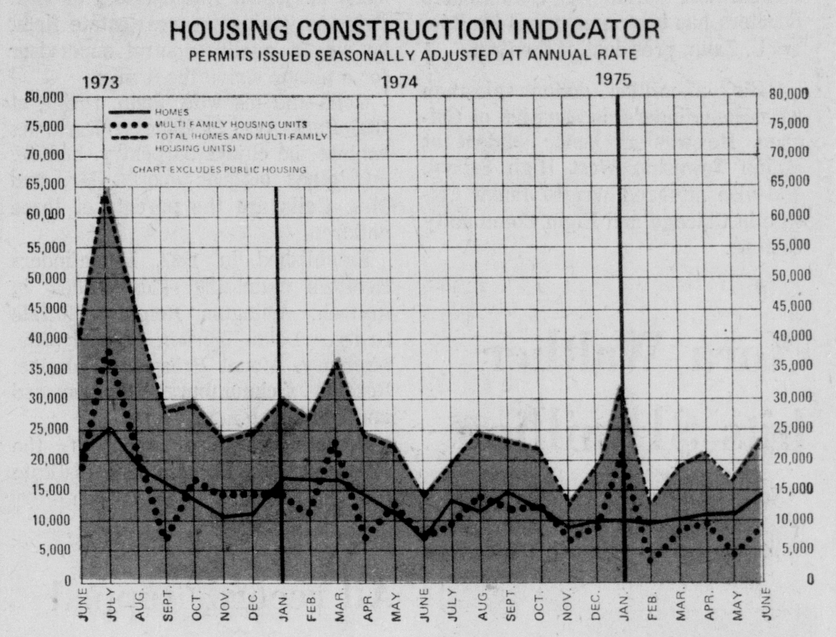
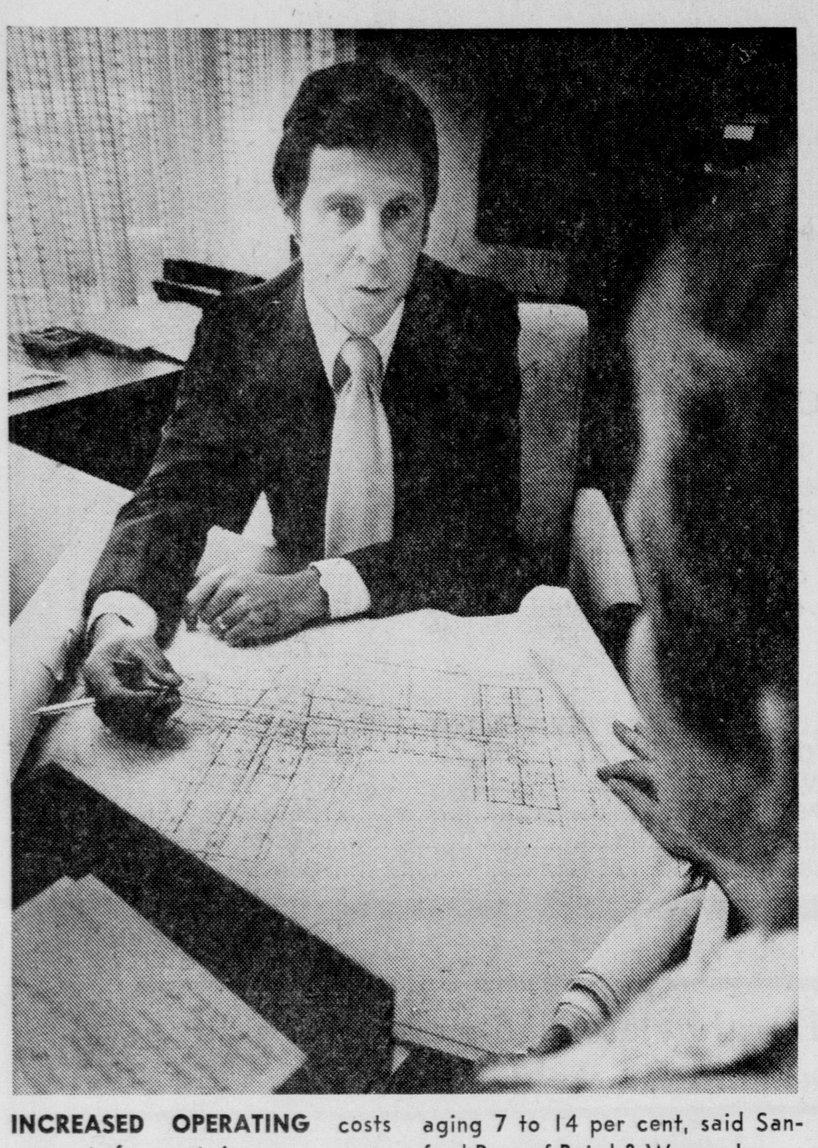
Apartment rent increases to be less in NW suburbs



APARTMENT CONSTRUCTION, indicated in the Bell Federal Savings and Loan Assn. chart, has had its ups and downs in the past two years. The figure is shown as multi-family housing units.



INCREASED OPERATING costs account for rent increases averaging 7 to 14 per cent, said Sanford Ross of Baird & Warner Inc.

by LEA TONKIN

Rent hikes will be less this fall in the Northwest suburbs than in other parts of the Chicago metropolitan area.

That's the viewpoint of Sanford Ross, assistant vice president of Baird & Warner Inc. Ross is manager of the firm's property management office, 220 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights.

Ross said new tenants and residents renewing leases for another year will pay an average 7 to 14 per cent increase in rents starting Oct. 1. He based the prediction o a survey of some 3,500 units Baird & Warner manages in the North and Northwest suburbs.

"THE HIGH COST of everything" will mean continued increases in rental rates, Ross said. He believes the competition among apartment managers in Arlington Heights, Schaumburg and other area communities is keeping the lid on rental prices, however.

The going price for an apartment will vary according to the type of development, location, amenities such as swimming pool and tennis facilities, age of the building and other factors. Ross lists the average prices as follows for units in large complexes.

A one-bedroom unit will fetch $225 to $265 a month, a two-bedroom apartment will cost $275 to $350 a month and a three-bedroom unit $360 to $410. There are few three-bedroom and studio apartments, Ross said.

Setting an apartment rental rate is a balancing act, the manager said. Stiff rent hikes aimed at keeping pace with rising costs can lead to increased turnover rates. "Turnover means costs," Ross said. He figures 2½ times the apartment's monthly rental rate will be spent to refurbish a unit for new tenants.

Rent increases in the Northwest than the North Shore suburbs, said Lorenz Garcia, vice president in the property management division for Quinlan & Tyson Inc., management and rental office in Evanston.

"At least for this year, supply is ahead of demand in the Northwest area," Garcia said. "This gap will close. When it closes the incentive to build is there."

THE RENT increases for Northwest suburban apartments will mean a "somewhat tighter" profit picture for building owners, Garcia said. Occupancy rates are approximately 85 to 95 per cent in the Northwest suburbs compared with 98 to 99 per cent rate for adjacent areas. Heavy competition marks the Northwest suburban apartment market, Garcia said.

Garcia said the majority of the company's leases are due Oct. 1 and May 1. "We ask to know by this time if people are going to renew," he said, "so this is a good time to look."

The management specialist advised potential tenants to check several units before they sign a lease. "You should always compare prices," he said. Garcia said a one-bedroom apartment in the Northwest suburbs generally rents for $225 to $265 and a two-bedroom unit runs $250 to $300 a month. No efficiency units are available, he said.

Dick Watkins, manager of the Hilldale Villages in Hoffman Estates, for Arthur Rubloff and Co., said rent increases averaging 7 to 7½ per cent were announced recently. Rents start at $225 for a one-bedroom unit, $260 for a two-bedroom apartment and $395 for three-bedroom apartments and townhouses.

"Even 7 per cent doesn't make up for operating costs," Watkins said of the rent increases. Energy-related expenses account for a big chunk of the rising costs, he said.

POTENTIAL tenants should look at more than one apartment before they sign on the dotted line, advised Suzanne Lueder, office manager at the Apartment Information Center, Mount Prospect. The firm is a service of Relocation Consultants Inc., which offers rental information to prospective tenants. There is no fee for the service.

One-bedroom, three-bedroom and townhome units are in great demand in the Northwest suburbs, Ms. Leuder said. Demand for apartments in Arlington Heights and Des Plaines is heavy, "and you're paying for location," she said.

Linda Schmidt of the commercial division, Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan Chicago Inc., said apartment hunters should beware of apartment finding services that charge a fee. The BBB receives complaints about agencies that require a fee, and then offer a list of available units gathered from newspaper advertisements.

"People should also realize you're getting into a legally binding agreement whe you sign a lease," she said. "Be sure of what you sign. Re-read it over again many times. You may think the landlord will provide services that he doesn't provide."

Mikva supporting bill to cut sex bias

Sex discrimination in mortgage lending policies would be prohibited under a bill cosponsored by U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th.

The bill, called the Marital Status Credit Amendments to the 1968 Civil Rights Act and the National Housing Act, will be considered by the U.S. House of Representatives' Banking, Currency and Housing Committee and the House Judiciary Committee. The measure would prohibit sex discrimination against men or women by mortgage lenders.

Tenants winning battles through strikes, courts

by United Press International

Tenants' rights supporters are winning their fight through rent strikes and in the courts.

In New York City, 30 mostly elderly tenants, worried about increasing burglaries, joined in a rent strike that forced the landlord to improve security in their apartment house.

More than 3,000 miles away in Washington state, apartment dwellers withheld up to $75 in rent to repair their own apartments.

A Chicago man, sitting in his living room, was bitten on the left foot by a mouse. He sued and set off a legal battle over the building's rundown conditions.

CHARLES AVERBOOK, the attorney who handled the case, said the man and his wife had lived for months with holes in the walls, cracks in the windows and ceilings and rat excrement scattered in the basement.

After the mouse bite, they found another apartment and kept their last month's rent. The landlord sued for eviction and rent. Averbook filed a counter-complaint, citing the Illinois Supreme Court's ruling there is an "implied warranty of habitability" between landlord and tenant. He asked for $3,200 in damages, including the last month's rent.

His client ended up with a $750 out-of-court settlement — plus the rent.

"During the past 2½ years, landlord-tenant law has developed from a farmer-agrarian property rights law until it is beginning to look like a consumer rights law," said Richard Blumberg, an attorney with the National Housing Law Project in San Francisco.

Blumberg said the "warranty of habitability" clause established in Illinois now is in effect in one form or another in 31 states, but it is rarely used.

But he and other lawyers agree that the main problem is that tenants aren't aware of their rights.

JERRY LURIE, a tenant specialist for the Chicago United Charities Legal Aid Bureau, said the warranty law gives the tenant the right to sue for damages when the landlord fails to meet city building codes.

Unfortunately, he said, a tenant usually has to hire a lawyer to win, and most are lower-income families who can't afford attorneys.

William Lyman, a one-time landlord for thousands of Chicago area apartments and an author of the city's new lease form, said landlords are resistant to the new laws because "the underlying economics are sick.

"The problem is that rents haven't followed expenses," he said. "I think the tenant laws will drive capital out of the industry. I'll predict that all rental housing is going to be owned by one government or another in five or 10 years."

Bldg. permits increase 86% during June

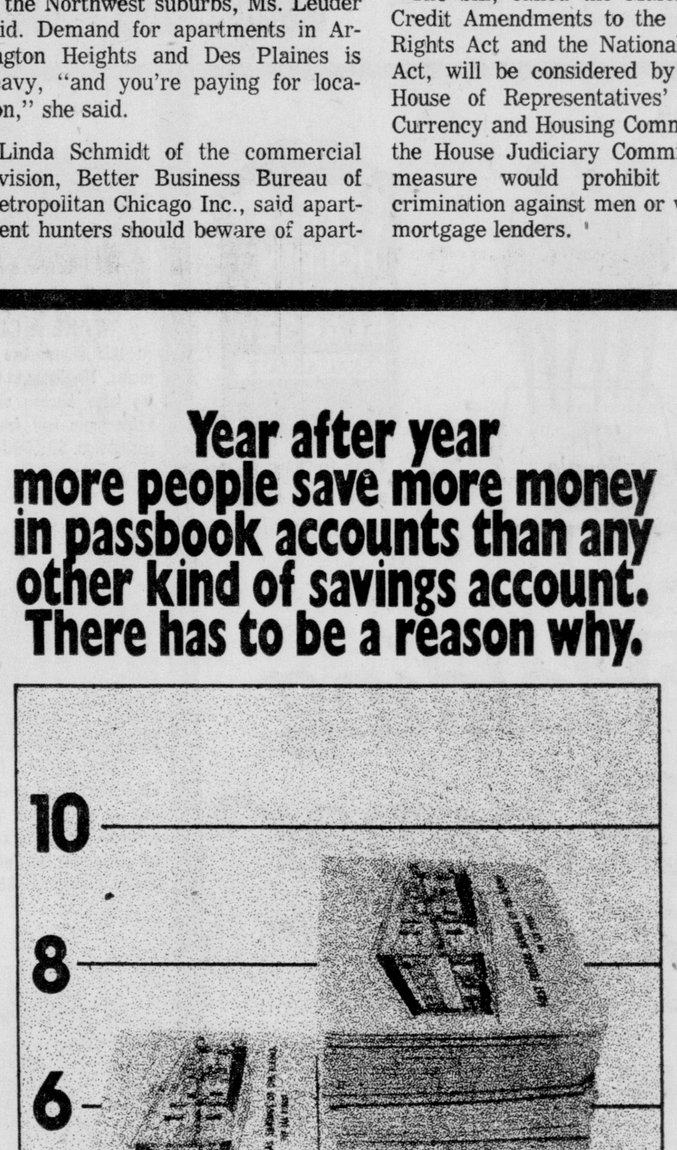
Increased construction activity in the Chicago area was reflected in an 86 per cent increase in building permits issued during June, compared with the same month last year.

According to the Bell Federal Savings Survey of New Building, permits for single-family and multi-family housing totaled 2,257 units during June compared to 1,211 units in the comparable month in 1974. Single-family house permits for the Chicago metropolitan area totaled 1,519 units compared to 603 units a year ago. Multi-family, or apartment construction permits, increased 21 per cent during the period, from 608 units in June 1974 to 738 units for June of this year.

Schaumburg is ranked among the top 10 housing leaders for 1975 in the Bell survey. The municipality reported permits for 187 single-family houses and no apartment units for the first six months of the year.

Total housing activity in Chicago and suburbs for the first six months of 1975 was 12 per cent below the report for the same period in 1974. Multi-family housing decreased 28 per cent from 5,333 units to 3,861 units. Permits for single-family houses increased from 5,837 to 5,926 units during the period.

Year after year more people save more money in passbook accounts than any other kind of savings account. There has to be a reason why.



There are. Passbook accounts, more than any other kind of account, provide the saver with a record of accomplishment. Page after page, as the balance grows and the interest compounds, the pride of savings satisfaction increases. But there's more, lots more. A First Federal Savings passbook is designed for the undecided. If you want funds quickly, they are there, with no loss of earnings.

First Federal pays 5¼% annually on every dollar, every day it is on deposit. Passbook savings means easy access when you need the money without penalty.

A record of accomplishment. Maximum flexibility. Easy accessibility. High earnings paid from the day of deposit until the day of withdrawal. Insured safety. And above all First Federal Savings pays postage both ways on all transactions. You should have a First Federal of Des Plaines passbook. After all, it's the reasonable thing to do.

Robert Geils named manager

The appointment of Robert Geils, of Hanover Park, as manager of the Streamwood office of Homefinders Realtors has been announced by Robert L. Zaun, president of the firm.

Geils, a million dollar salesman with Homefinders, is a native of Chicago. He was an honor student at Maine Township West High School, and also attended Wright Junior College in Chicago and Elgin Community College.

Geils has ben selected "Salesman of the Month" on numerous occasions since he joined Homefinders in 1972. Prior to joining the real estate firm, he was a quality control supervisor for a plastic converter firm.

Geils and his wife, Jean, reside at 1825 Park Ave. in Hanover Park. As hobbies, he enjoys carpentry, hunting and other outdoor sports. Mr. and Mrs. Geils are the parents of three children.

Established in 1967, Homefinders Realtors maintains sales offices in Antioch, Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Lake Zurich, Libertyville, McHenry, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Roselle, Schaumburg, Streamwood and Waukegan.

Homefinders also sponsors the state-approved Homefinders Institute for Real Estate.

Nora Walther hits $1 million

Nora Walther has become the second sales associate with Century 21 — Arlington Realty to reach the $1 million sales volume figure in her first year in real estate sales. Terry Leighty, Palatine area sales office manager, Palatine area sales office Realty, made the announcement for the firm.

Nora Walther

Arlington Realty announced early last month that Carol Grimm had qualified for the Million Dollar Sales Club her very first year as a licensed sales associate. The two women are now almost even in their running for "Rookie of the Year" honors.

Mrs. Walther joined Arlington Realty one year ago. She has been honored as sales associate of the month on three separate occasions. She and her husband, Dick, are 11-year residents of Palatine and are active in several community affairs and projects. They are parents of four.

All records topped by Annen & Busse

Annen & Busse, Inc. Realtors, in their 26th year of service to the northwest suburbs, broke all previous sales records in the company's history during the month of July. The combined five Annen & Busse offices exceeded $4,500,000 in total transactions during the above mentioned period — an outstanding achievement, stated Edward J. Busse, president of Annen & Busse.

"We feel this invigorated real estate activity is a healthy economic indicator not only for the real estate industry but for the entire northwest community as well," said Busse.

Participating in this history making record by leading their respective offices in sales transactions were Jim Lenzo, Schaumburg office; Dee Walsh, Arlington Heights office; Del Sears, Mount Prospect; Don Jeschke, Palatine office; and Kaye Morrison, Buffalo Grove Office.

LET'S TALK IT OVER

JERRY BOUSCHARD

The land that your house rests upon, the land you bought and pay taxes on, may not be yours! Yours alone, that is. Oh, sure, you can build on it, fence it off, subdivide it or sell it but certain public rights may take precedence over your own.

Utility companies or government agencies sometimes have easements to use portions of your property. The power company may have the right to run power lines across your land, or the phone company can, if it chooses, put poles along your property line.

You should know about easements and similar rights of others in your property. We can tell you how to find out about this and other aspects of real estate.

Have access to second living room

How does one entertain a large group of guests in the living room of a townhome or a condominium which, though it may be spacious for the housing type, does not quite have the amount of extra square footage as that in a rambling single family home?

This is a problem faced by the multi-family homeowner whose dwelling meets his or her space needs for all save those occasional parties or family gatherings. An alternative is found in those communities featuring an on-site recreation center with a community hall.

But so often such rooms are stark, with ample space and precious little atmosphere.

Donna Almerico of Richard Honquest & Associates, interior design firm of Addison, studied this problem carefully and decorated the community hall of the clubhouse at The Groves of Hidden Creek, a Kennedy Brothers' planned unit development near Palatine, so as to give these homeowners an advantage over single family dwellers — the second living room.

Keeping in mind the fact that a community hall must be as flexible as possible in its use of space, with multi-purpose furniture lending itself to everything from informal gatherings to residents' meetings, Ms. Almerico chose versatile seating units as her main pieces. To meet all of the demands which would be put on the room, and yet retain that cozy, living room appearance, comfortable overstuffed couches were chosen in a durable fabric.

The units are basic four-seaters which may be pushed together or pulled apart to form a varity of seating units, from an extra-long couch for maximum one-directional seating, down to two-seaters, for intimate conversation groups. A large number of pillows, in addition to contributing to the lived-in look, provide additional seating.

The couches are just the thing to snuggle into around a cozy fire, or rearrange to offer a view of the pool and sun deck by day, or watching the stars by night. And you can watch them in any way you like in this flexible room — all of the pieces of furniture are movable, including the wicker and chrome chairs, bleached pine cocktail tables with break-resistant ¾" glass, and even the cigar store Indian.

Ms. Almerico was looking for "a room in which anyone would feel comfortable" and chose an earth-tone color scheme to complement the California-contemporary architecture. "And yet I didn't want anything too old-fashioned. I felt that Hidden Creek homeowners would like a fun decor with unusual pieces they would enjoy and yet might not be able to afford in furnishing their own living rooms," said Ms. Almerico.

Such pieces include a "fantasy" painting, hung on the "butterscotch" accent wall, by Chicago artist, Skip Hartzell. A 4' x 8' macrame piece, commissioned for the community hall, dramatically sets off the tall center wall above the gas fireplace.

Hidden Creek, a community of townhomes which is halfway through construction of its second phase, features four Villas (townhomes) of two and three bedrooms priced from $31,900 to $43,500. When completed, the $60 million community will comprise approximately 1400 residences including townhomes, garden court apartments and several types of condominiums.

The recently opened recreation center features, in addition to the "second living room," a billiard and game room, catering kitchen, meeting rooms and locker rooms.

Hidden Creeek is located on Baldwin Road at Dundee Road (Rt. 68) just a half mile west of Route 53 near Palatine. Furnished models and sales center are open weekdays and Saturdays from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. and on Sundays from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m.

Bolger addresses RELO conference

Better service to a growing number of transferees moving from one city to another for business reasons was the prime focus of the annual midyear meeting and national educational conference of RELO/Inter-City Relocation Service members July 21-23 in New Orleans.

Terence A. Bolger addressed the conference on Training Managers and Sales Personnel. "With money generally readily available and optimistic forecasts for the economy, we find a general increase in corporate transfer activity in our local area, matching the national growth in transfers reported during executive sessions and educational seminars," stated Bolger.

"RELO members assisted 16 percent more families during June 1975, compared with June 1974," Bolger reported. Over 400 leading real estate brokers and sales associates from this country and overseas attended the meeting.

RELO'S annual conference climaxed 45 local and regional educational sessions held this year by the nation's oldest and largest not-for-profit real estate referral service. All are designed to increase the skills of 17,000 member sales associates at finding homes for inter-city transferees.

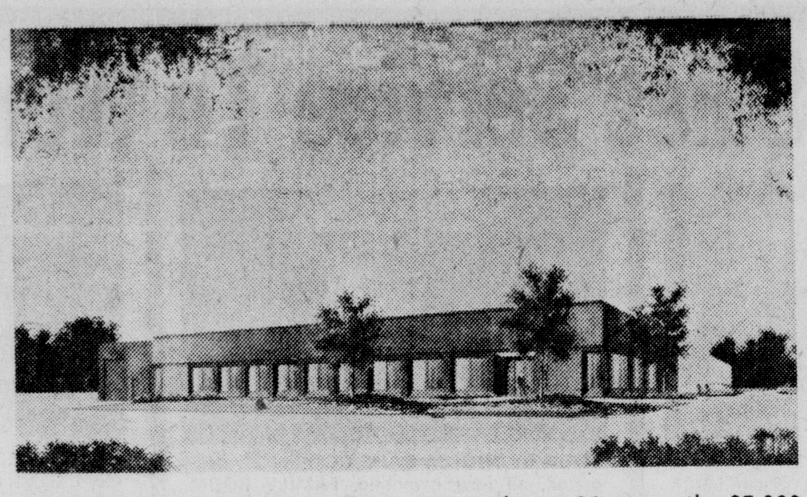
Rubloff, Podolsky to merge

R. J. Adelman, chairman of Arthur Rubloff & Co., has disclosed that the nationwide real estate services of this Chicago-based company are being augmented by the merger into the Rubloff organization of another major real estate firm, Podolsky and Associates.

Milton Podolsky and his staff of commercial and industrial real estate specialists are relocating Sept. 1 from 625 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago to the corporate headquarters of Arthur Rubloff & Co., 69 W. Washington St., Chicago.

In making the announcement, Adelman also stated that another nationally prominent name in real estate will be added to the Arthur Rubloff & Co. executive ranks when Joseph G. Dillon, presently vice president and director of Harrington, Tideman & O'Leary, joins Arthur Rubloff & Co. as vice president and general manager of the Industrial Properties Department.



REPUBLIC Realty Mortgage Corporation has arranged permanent financing in the amount of $350,000, for 25 years, secured by property located at 2495 Pembroke Ave. in Hoffman Estates. Located on 1.98 acres, the 25,000 square foot masonry and steel industrial facility, with air-conditioned office space, has on-site parking to accommodate 35 cars.

Firm reports record month

Century 21-Countryside Real Estate reports a record breaking month for the young firm's total sales volume. Century 21-Countryside sold in excess of $800,000 in real estate during the month of July. This follows a very successful June in which the firm sold in excess of one half million dollars.

Century 21-Countryside office manager Tom Stengren attributes the success to "a professional and experienced staff which is dedicated to the awareness of customer needs and solving of customer problems and to the Century 21 image, organization and professionalism."

"A great deal of our business stems from the Century 21 referral network," says Ray LeBrun, principle.

Century 21-Countryside Real Estate is located at 1131 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights. Plans for another office location in Mt. Prospect are now under way and will be completed shortly.

Visit Bonsai Festival Aug. 15-17

A good way to spend a day in August will be to visit the 17th Annual Midwest Bonsai Festival at Hill's Garden Center located on the corner of Rts. 31 and 72 in Dundee.

The Festival begins tomorrow, Aug. 15 and continues Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 16 and 17. It is free to the public and will be open daily at 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Lectures and demonstrations will be given by Kaneji Domoto, nationally recognized Bonsai authority and creator of Japanese style gardens coast to coast.

You can view the 12 permanent Japanese Gardens on the grounds and watch Domoto "build" a newly designed garden. Thece will be a showing of the award winning film, "My Garden Japan." You can visit the Rama House where everything for creating your own Bonsai will be available for purchase. Several hundred prized Bonsai will be on display for exhibitors of many Midwestern states, and an auction of Bonsai plants will be held on Saturday and Sunday.

The gnarled old Japanese Juniper (Bonsai) and many other Bonsai in the Permanent Hills collection will be on display in the garden gallery.

Two offices gain honors

Century 21's northwest suburban real estate offices received two awards at a sales rally held at the Elmhurst Country Club on July 23.

Century 21 Village Square Realty, Inc., Palatine, was awarded the top office honors for the most referrals.

Dee Dee Shlagman and Dean Yount, both of Century 21 Village Square Realty, in Arlington Heights and Palatine, and Marion Shangraw, Century 21 Arlington Realty, Inc., Arlington Heights, shared a three-way tie for most referrals.

Everything Bolger Touches Turns to "SOLD"

A SIMPLE and economical room divider can solve many of the problems that arise when two children share one bedroom. A ceiling-mounted blind divides the room for privacy, or can be raised out of the way when not needed.

Gain privacy with divider

Whether there's a difference in age or sexes, there's always a time when privacy seems essential for children and young adults. Unfortunately, not many families can afford a room for every family member.

Dividing a room with a permanent wall is often considered, but only fleetingly, since a wall takes up lots of floor space and a sizable chunk of the household budget as well. And once it's constructed, it's there for good.

A new room divider, made with adjustable blinds, can solve this problem beautifully, economically and simply.

The ceiling-mounted divider blind can cut down sibling squabbles by dividing one bedroom into two to give each child his or her own sleeping, study and play area. Also, the children can learn to express individual tastes by decorating their own rooms. by decorating their own rooms.

This versatile, aluminum divider will help prevent quarrels over such significant matters as who messed up (and will clean up) "our" room, or how far one child can spread his latest project without infringing on the other's territory. On the other hand, the blinds can be tilted to the horizontal, "open" position or raised out of the way when both children are amiably working or playing together.

The blind, generally thought of as a window covering, can also be used to divide a living room/dining room area, to conceal a pullman kitchen or camouflage storage and utility areas.

Created by using lightweight narrow slats, the divider screen is available in many color combinations that go well with any decor color scheme. What's more, the divider permits change in the size of the areas being separated since removal or relocation only involves a minimum of work.

Research works for you

Popular interest in home gardening has never been higher. Along with the return to the soil there has been an increased awareness of natural beauty and a healthy environment for all growing things. Every day the proper use of insecticides, herbicides and fungicides becomes more important to protecting the environment.

According to James E. Schuster, University of Illinois Extension Horticulturist in DuPage County, there are more insects in the world than any other living thing and, as our population increases, the competition with insects and other pests becomes more intense.

It is estimated that government agencies, colleges, universities, and the chemical industry spend more than a billion dollars per year for research into the life and appetite of insects. This research involves finding biological, cultural and chemical controls.

For example, it takes from five to seven years and an expenditure of six to 10 million dollars before one insecticide reaches the market, says Schuster. Every step is carefully regulated for consumer protection.

When a single insecticide can be used to control a multitude of insects the home gardener saves time, money and effort. Using it means that the entire garden can be sprayed at the same time to control different insect problems instead of several different insect sprays to control each specific insect.

Despite all of the research, a product is only as good as its application. Misuse could be harmful.

Read the label carefully before each use. Follow directions accurately (using more than the recommended amount is not only expensive but also possibly harmful.)

Disposal of empty containers should be handled as directed. Do not crush or burn spray type pressure cans.

Do not store containers where children or pets can reach them and always store the contents in the original labeled container warns Schuster. It is a good idea to keep the containers under lock and key.

Garden spraying should be kept to a minimum. If the job is done thoroughly each time, you need only spray at regular intervals. When spraying is necessary, do so until the leaves on the plant start to drip, and be sure to cover both sides because insects love to hide and feed on the underside of foliage.

James Dustan attends seminar

James Dustan, of T. A. Bolger, Realtors, recently completed a seminar in Washington, D.C. on "Obtaining, Training and Retaining Sales Associates." This course emphasizes successful techniques for seeking, selecting, hiring, training and retaining sales associates.

James Dustan is vice president and manager of T. A. Bolger, Realtors Rolling Meadows office, which is one of four Bolger offices serving the northwest suburbs.

Handy tips

Save old nylons for tying plants to stakes and trellises, styrofoam egg cartons for starting seeds and popsicle and ice cream bar sticks for temporary labels.

Darlene Mayer joins sales staff

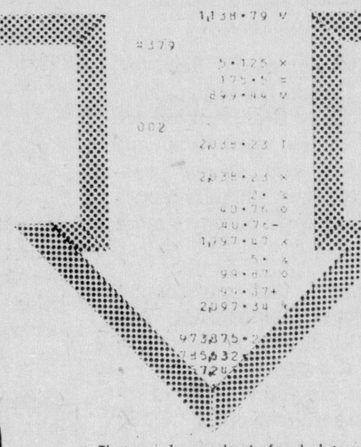
Darlene Mayer has joined Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors, as a real estate sales representative in the firm's Buffalo Grove area office.

Her appointment was announced by Robert Griffith, office sales manager.

An experienced Realtor in the northwest suburban area, Mrs. Mayer previously was a preschool teacher for three years.

Mrs. Mayer has a daughter, Renee, and lives in Arlington Heights.

Your outdated office machine. It's worth $120 toward a new Canon printer.



That cranky mechanical calculator. The ancient typewriter with the sticky, sticky keys. All those inefficient office machines that, just for one good reason, you'd chuck in an instant.

Well, that one good reason is here.

For a limited time only, any adding machine, typewriter or calculator you bring us — regardless of its age, brand or condition — is worth $120 in trade toward the purchase of Canon's MP1214 printing calculator.*

The 12-digit MP1214 has time- and step-saving features that streamline accounting procedures. Like a versatile memory. Percentage key for add-on and discount. Repeat addition and subtraction. Item counter.

And its fully buffered keyboard won't slow down the fastest operators. Neither will the adding machine-like keyboard layout, which lets people use the blind touch method they're already accustomed to.

Mfg. sug. list price $419.00

Other models also available: Minis - Electronic Adding Machines - Scientifics and Programmables.

Only one trade-in allowed for each MP1214 purchased.*

Real estate facts

President, Northwest Suburban Board of REALTORS®

For many families, the summer months are an ideal time for buying a home. In fact, statistics on existing single-family home sales from the National Association of Realtors show that home buying activity does indeed peak in June and July. That's when the school year usually ends, and many families with children try to plan their move to a new home accordingly.

Also, in those areas of the country which experience harsh winter weather, the summer months are most conducive to home-seeking and moving.

So, if you're one of the many Americans who will be buying a home this summer, here are some tips — which apply year-round — to help you avoid certain costly home buying mistakes.

Make sure you can afford the home. Experts recommend this rule-of-thumb formula: never buy a house costing more than 2½ times your annual income.

Consider whether the home is large enough for the family you have or plan to have.

Be certain the lot is large enough to offer adequate privacy. "Large enough" means providing at least 10 to 12 feet between neighboring houses.

Notice whether or not the lot is landscaped. If not, you may have to plan on the additional cost of planting trees or shrubbery.

Check out neighboring houses and lawns. Are they well kept? If so, that's an indication that the neighborhood is stable. It also means property values are enhanced.

Inspect both the interior and exterior of the house for any needed repairs or repainting. If you find either or both is needed, estimate the cost and add it to the asking price for the house. You may find you can't afford it.

Determine whether wiring will be adequate for your present and future needs. If not, calculate cost involved in adding to present electrical service. You can have an electrician make a professional inspection.

Inspect the property after a heavy rain, if possible. A leaky roof or foundation could mean a lot of added expense.

Familiarize yourself with zoning regulations that apply to the area. Some home buyers are unpleasantly surprised when a vacant lot down the street turns into a factory because zoning permitted it.

Learn proximity of parks, recreation areas, transportation lines, schools, churches, hospitals and shopping areas. Having such facilities nearby can make life easier.

Look for features that will add to the resale value of the house if you should later decide to sell it. A family room or extra bath will help, but expensive carpeting may not. Ask about or call on neighbors. Do they have similar interests and lifestyles?

Make sure the garage provides adequate space for your car and any garden tools or lawn equipment you plan to store in it.

Check the heating and hot water systems, and get an expert's opinion if you have any doubts. Replacements can be expensive.

Find out the location of busy streets. If they're too close, you may be bothered by noise. But if they're too far away, you may have trouble getting where you want to go.

Find out if there are any appliances included in the sale. Appliances that are in good condition could mean savings. Appliances that are not will mean spending money for repairs or removal.

Investigate community services: police and fire protection, garbage collection and snow removal. Are all services provided? And are they adequate?

Find out about property taxes: when was the last increase and how much was it?

And, finally — why not consult a Realtor or real estate broker? This checklist can help you look for the right home. But professional assistance can help you be sure you've found it.

Select trees with home in mind

Selecting the proper shade tree for your new yard — or to replant an established home grounds — is a more complex task than you may at first realize. But it can be a fun sort of a challenge, too, according to the Ornamental Growers Assn. of Northern Ill.

A good way to start the job is to plot the possible locations of shade trees on tracing paper fastened over a plan of your house. Consider what are the effects you want to achieve with these shade trees, before you choose specific varieties for the locations you pick.

Your first consideration, of course, will be shade itself. To decide what areas of the house or yard you want shaded and to what degree. Some trees, such as Norway Maple, have dense foliage, allowing little light to get through. Others give a light, filtered shade, such as the Honeylocust.

Either type may be used to shade a patio, terrace or children's play area — as well as a bedroom or living room window of the house.

Large shade trees can also be used to frame a house or an off-property view, the same way a picture frame enhances the looks of a painted landscape. In fact, the aesthetic relationship of trees to the home is an extremely important overall consideration.

Too small a tree set beside a large house will make the house appear even larger, while a large tree has the effect of bringing such a structure into its proper perspective.

Large shade trees planted behind the house will give the frontal view a "warm, friendly, come-and-enjoy" look. That's an important part of the framing idea. Other trees planted off to one side of the front door area will also help to frame it.

Keep in mind the shape and branching habits of various kinds of trees, as well as their size. Basically, trees fall into three main forms — columnar, round and oval. Columnar trees are not generally recommended for shade, but can serve as screening or that all important framing function behind the home. (Poplars are the most popular kind of columnars.) The second and third shapes are typified by the Norway Maple and the Sugar Maple. In addition, some trees are pyramidal (as the Pin Oak), while others are vase-shaped in structure (like a Hackberry).

Carefully consider any of the possible "negative" effects of certain types of trees in the locations you choose. For example, be extremely cautious of underground utilities and overhead wires when choosing trees. Roots and branches can be extremely disastrous to both. Do not put trees over septic tanks, drain fields or other underground tiles, especially if the tree has a shallow root system.

If you consider seeds, stems and leaves a nuisance you'd rather not contend with, you can avoid part of the rake-up problem by selecting trees which minimize these by-products. There are seedless, stemless and small-leaved shade trees available.

Avoid trees (such as Black Locust and Siberian Elm) which grow quickly, but are prone to storm damage from ice, snow and wind.

Following is a list of some outstanding shade trees recommended by the O.G.A. for the Chicago area:

Norway Maple (Acer platanoides). Dense compact growth with large green leaves in summer.

Sugar Maple (Acer saccharum). Has spreading branches and a broad symmetrical top. Very beautiful in the fall with golden and orange leaves.

Hackberry (Celtis occidentalis). Similar in structure to the elm at maturity and therefore a good substitute for the diseased elms. A native tree with light green leaves.

White Ash (Fraxinus americana). A rapid-growing, tall tree with outstanding purple fall color.

Thornless Honeylocust (Gleditsia Triacanthos inermis). Rapid-growing tree with lacy, fine-textured foliage, and picturesque branching. Casts a light shade which doesn't impede the growth of grass.

Pin Oak (Quercus palustris). A tree with a broad pyramidal head, and bright red foliage in the autumn.

Little-leaf Linden (Tilia cordata). A tree with a densely pyramidal habit with compact foliage for good shade. An excellent disease resistant tree.

Kentucky Coffetree (Gymnocladus dioicus). An often ignored shade tree with light blue-green foliage and white flowers.

Lawn has cash value

A recent random survey of real estate brokers across the nation indicates that the lawn around a house has a measurable cost value — and it may be a lot higher than most people think.

As reported in a recent issue of "Lawn Care," the survey, made by an independent research organization shows that only six per cent of the brokers questioned thought that the condition of the lawn in influencing a home buyer's decision was not important; 58 per cent thought it was important; 36 per cent thought it very important.

Comments were interesting. "When the lawn is taken care of, the house is taken care of, too." "A woman looks at a house from outside. If it looks good she'll go in, if not, chances are she won't look at it." "If we have two houses of equal price, the one with the good lawn will go faster." One broker summed it up in four words, "First impressions are lasting."

When it came to putting a cash value on a thick, weed-free lawn, the figures varied all the way from nothing to $10,000, with an arithmetic average of $1,322. on a $35,000 house that is 3.77 per cent. Applied to a $20,000 house, the same percentage would represent $754. On a $60,000 home it would be $2,262.

Whether these estimates are too high or too low, they do suggest that, quite apart from its beauty, a good lawn has a cash value far in excess of the relatively small cost involved in its upkeep. All of which should be good news in these uncertain days when real estate is considered by many to be the family's "safest" investment and hedge against inflation.

Multi-stem plants

Plants with basebranching habit are important to commercial growers of cut flowers, and can be important to the home gardener who likes to cut flowers for indoor arrangements.

It means that instead of a single stem growing upright and branching above ground, the base-branching plants produce several stems growing from the ground level. Thus base-branching plants, such as snapdragons, will yield longer stems and more flowers suitable for cutting.

Walton Properties provides services

Dwight F. Walton has announced the formation of Walton Properties located at 1635 N. Arlington Heights

Dwight Walton

Road in Arlington Heights. The firm will handle commercial land sales, development, investments, and leasing/management activities in the Chicago northwest suburbs.

"It is our goal," said Walton, "to provide a complete array of commercial services to our real estate clients. There are many individuals and businesses that desire assistance in the performance of commercial land research and selection, development of property, investment analysis and property management. We are in a position to professionally fulfill their needs."

Walton is a life-long resident of the northwest suburbs and is active in community affairs. He has served as an Arlington Heights Village Trustee and Chairman of the Wheeling Township Mental Health Board. Presently, he is serving as Arlington Heights Bicentennial Chairman. Walton is a registered Illinois Real Estate Broker and a member of the Northwestern Suburban Board of Realtors.

Don't mow grass around tree area

Mowing grass close to trees takes a lot of patience to avoid bruising them and causing permanent injury. Therefore, it may be a good idea to develop a weed and grass free area around the trees.

Pull or use a garden hoe to loosen and remove vegetation next to the trees. Do not use a space or fork as you may dig too deeply and cut feeder roots.

Two to three inches of pecan shells, corn cobs, or shredded bark make attractive mulches to help reduce weed problems next to the trees.

5 years.

That's the exact time it takes for a U. S. Savings Bond to mature.

Unfortunately, most people still think it takes 10 years. Or 7. Wrong. It's exactly 5 years.

Of course, if you want to keep your money earning, there's a 10-year extension privilege beyond maturity.

We'd appreciate it if you'd help us clear up the confusion. Next time somebody tells you it takes 10 years for a Savings Bond to mature, smile indulgently. And then show him this ad.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Now Bonds mature in 5 years.

Plan room for outdoor living carefully

A room for outdoor living is now an essential of modern American life.

"And, it should be planned and furnished just as carefully as any indoor room."

So notes the home gardening division of Estech, Inc., chemicals subholding company of Esmark, Inc., Chicago.

The outdoor room — be it patio, terrace or simple backyard — is a delightful added feature — a focal point for family life.

"In the manner one frames a painting, so also must the space allocated for outdoor living be suitably enclosed," Estech says.

Sometimes walls of brick or stone, ornamented with clining vines, provide the background and necessary privacy. Roses and honeysuckle, ivy and winter creepers, wisteria, grapes and woodbines can be used — singly or in intermingled masses.

"They can be either carefully trained or allowed to tumble in luxuriant fashion.

"Hedges can also be used to enclose the outdoor room. A variety of choices includes the arbor-vitae that is evergreen; hawthorn whose leaves fall in winter to show twiggage of soft gray; or, wonderfully fragrant lilac," Estech suggests.

Such enclosures can be made doubly interesting if there is space for a background of flowering trees.

"For the earliest spring showing crocus, daffodils and tulips are advised.

"Tulips add flare, for instance. A single color may be used — or many massed together. They come in purples, reds, blacks and glowing scarlets, maroons, rose, salmon, pink, yellow and bronze.

"Then later, annuals can be set out for vibrant summer effects. Verbenas, petunias, heliotropes and nasturtiums give long and lasting bloom," Estech's people note.

It matters ver little whether the house be big or small— whether the garden be of spacious area or tiny dimension.

"What does matter is the fact that an outdoor room is indispensible to family fun and enjoyment," Estech concludes.

Don't use chlordane for insect control

Do not use chlordane for lawn grub control. The chemical does not work on grubs like it used to . . . but still does a good job on earthworms. Lack of earthworms in your lawn usually results in a thatch problem since the worms are not present to help pull the dead grass down into the soil. Therefore, do not use chlordane for insect problems in your lawn.

Sullivan elected vice president

William J. Sullivan, president of Sullivan Pontiac at 666 E. Northwest Hwy. in Arlington Heights, has been elected vice president of the Chicago Automobile Trade Assn. The CATA, oldest organization of its kind in the world, is made up of more than 650 new car dealers in the greater Chicago area.

Sullivan has been in the automobile business all of his working life. He became sales manager of the Pontiac dealership at 1101 Diversey Parkway in 1963 and was elected president in 1966. Two years ago he relocated his dealership to Arlington Heights.

He has served four terms as chairman of the Crusade of Mercy new car dealers fund drive in Chicago, and has served as an officer in the Pontiac Dealers Association of Chicago. In a recent ceremony he was presented an Illinois Service Award by Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett for his efforts in behalf of the Secretary's Dealer Advisory Committee.

He has been a member of the CATA Board of Directors for the past four years and has served two terms as treasurer. He has also been a member of the Executive Show Committee which plans and directs the annual Chicago Auto Show.

Attics solve space problems

Searching for a work room for the students in your family? Don't overlook the attic as a practical solution.

They're out of the family traffic areas, they're isolated from distracting noises and they're easily and economically converted from catch-all storage bins to serviceable living space. All that's generally required are a reorganization of storage facilities and minimal remodeling for comfort.

What most attics lack to make them "livable" are sunlight and ventilation. Their primary source of light and air is usually a small window. Installing a full-size stock wood window can solve this problem.

Any style you choose — from traditional double-hungs to contemporary casements or sliders — is readily available at local lumber dealers in pine units that are precision-manufactured for easy installation.

An interesting idea would be to use a stock bow or bay window. These units give maximum light, have operating panels for good ventilation and come with optional window seats that make comfortable reading nooks. The space under the seat can be used for storage.

To make the most of available space, and keep the room neat and attractive, separate the storage area and study quarters.

Install a series of folding or sliding pine louver doors to about a five-foot height under the sloping attic walls. The "hidden" space can be utilized for bookshelves, supply drawers, a typewriter table and other school equipment, as well as for cartons, odds-and-ends and out-of-season clothing. Louver doors are especially practical when storing clothes because they allow a free flow of air that helps prevent mildew.

Grand Opening

The townhomes everyone will be telling you about.

People will talk. And once they find out what's available at Willow Woods, you won't be able to escape the fact that ours are the most unusual townhomes in the area.

We call them "townhomes." Because that's what they look like. Homes. Not attached rows of cookie-cutter exteriors. Our townhomes come two to a building, with enough architectural variety to make sure you don't mistake someone else's for yours. Willow Woods Townhomes are also built entirely of that vanishing substance—brick. And they come with attached garages, a private fenced yard, complete sodded lawn and foundation plantings.

Once inside, you'll find they also include other vanishing amenities such as carpeting, drapery, individually controlled heat and air conditioning units, Westinghouse dishwasher, refrigerator and range, disposal, dark-tone wood kitchen cabinets, 1½ baths with vinyl decorator walls, utility room, insulated windows with screens and sliding glass doors in the master bedroom.

That's about all we can tell you about our townhomes. Other features like the gently rolling landscape, the great Streamwood community spirit, the parks, pool and recreation center, the schools and the convenient shopping and transportation will speak for themselves.

Add natural insulation to a home

The centuries old beauty of clinging and climbing vines has a newly important place in your outdoor decoration plans. With attention focused on saving energy — air conditioning in hot weather, heating fuel in cold — it is important to know that vines growing up the side of masonry walls, or on trellises at wooden walls, add a highly effective insulation.

If the outside walls of your home are kept cool, sheltered from the direct rays of the summer sun, it is obvious the indoor temperature will be lower. That is the action achieved by a growth of deciduous vines on the southern and western walls. Deciduous plants are suggested because they will drop their foliage in winter to let the sun help warm the house.)

And when weather is cold a covering of evergreen vines on the north surfaces will deflect the wind, help keep indoors warmer.

Once you have placed the plants in the ground nature does most of the rest of the work for you. The American Association of Nurserymen has some tips to help you do your part.

The kind of vines you select will depend to a great extent on your own preference and on the kind of structure they will be insulating. If yours is a masonry wall a clinging species like Boston ivy or Virginia Creeper will be good for the summer insulation (on southern and western walls), and an evergreen species like English ivy will be practical for cold weather protection on the north surfaces.

Clinging vines are not good for wooden walls because their stems and tendrils hold moisture, causing the wood to deteriorate. But the same insulating effect can be obtained by training twining vines like wisteria or climbing roses on trellises. The trellises can be detached and swung away from wooden walls when they need painting and then pulled up in place again.

Bare-rooted vines should be put in during the early spring or late fall when they are dormant. Plants growing in containers may be planted anytime during the year.

Most vines grow best in fertile, well drained soil. If your soil lacks these qualities, place a layer of peat moss at the bottom of the holes, then a layer of mixed peat moss, sand and soil. Your garden center can recommend the right kind of fertilizer to meet your needs.

Young vines should be trained to provide the desired growth pattern. If yours is a masonry wall, small hooks fastened to the wall with weatherproof adhesive will accomplish the task. If the wall is wooden and you are using a trellis the new canes may need to be fastened into position by tying them with a soft cloth. Once the early training is begun the vines will continue on their own, with only occasional pruning or directing on your part.

Now is the time to add vines to your gardening plans for their comfortable beauty . . . and for welcome energy conservation.

Hungry pests cost $10 billion annually

Japanese beetles and other pests that attack plants cost farmers, gardeners and others an estimated $10 billion a year.

Staffer tops $1 million

For the fifth straight year, Mary Ann Falkenberg of Quinlan and Tyson has sold more than $1 million in real estate.

Mrs. Falkenberg, a real estate sales representative in the firm's Palatine area office, topped the mark in July, it was announced by Beverly Ann Berry, office sales manager.

Mrs. Falkenberg now has a career sales total of more than $7 million with Quinlan and Tyson. She has been the leading sales representative in the Palatine area office in each of the last three years.

She became a Life Member of the Illinois Association of Realtors Million Dollar Club for closing sales in excess of $1 million for three consecutive years. She also was named to Quinlan and Tyson's President's Circle for her exceptional achievements.

Mrs. Falkenberg, who is a licensed real estate broker, lives in Palatine. She had her husband, Charles, have 10 children.

Murphy's posts gain

S. Warne Robinson, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of G. C. Murphy Company has announced that net income for the first six months of 1975 was $2,529,000, a 6.8 per cent increase over the $2,368,000 reported for the same period in 1974. Murphy has a store in Mount Prospect Plaza.

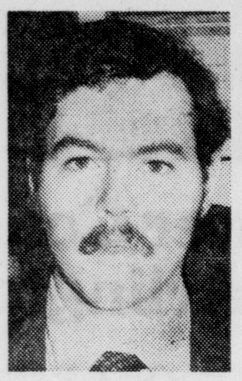
Net income per share for the six-month period was $.65, compared with $.61 for the first six months of 1974. Record sales for the period were $235,368,000, a 6.7 per cent increase over the six-month figure of $220,495,000 reported a year ago.

For the quarter ending June 30, 1975, net income was $2,187,000 compared with $2,191,000 for the second quarter of 1974. Net income per share for the quarter was $.56, the same as a year earlier. Sales for the second quarter were $129,113,000, a 4.3 per cent increase over the $123,809,000 reported for the second quarter of 1974.

Evans names top salesman

Roger H. Evans has named Jeff Stone as its salesman of the month of July.

Stone has been responsible for negotiating several industrial leases, sales of various homes and new listings. He is a new resident of Wheeling and has been with the Evans firm located in Prospect Heights, for two and one half years.



Jeff Stone

BOB DEL GIORNO, morning disc jockey on WIND radio in Chicago, and Larry Stone, marketing director of the First Arlington National Bank, draw the winning name. Winner of a Weber Kettle was Martha F. Soderberg of Rolling Meadows, a customer of the bank since 1954.

Russell Sonneveld joins Homefinders

Russell Sonneveld has joined Homefinders as a sales associate, according to Robert L. Zaun, president of the Palatine-based firm.

Sonneveld and his wife, Jo Anne, reside in Elk Grove Village. He has been assigned to the Mount Prospect office of Homefinders Realtors, which is located at 900 E. Northwest Hwy., in that village.

Born in Chicago, Russell Sonneveld attended Fenger High School and studied law at De Paul University.

Sonneveld served in the U.S. Navy, and prior to joining Homefinders, he was a police officer. He received numerous letters of recognition as a policeman, and was also a company honorman when he graduated from boot camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Sonneveld are the parents of two children. Sonneveld enjoys the hobbies of handball, reading, fishing and cooking.

HomeFinders Realtors maintains its 12 sales offices in Antioch, Buffalo Grove, Lake Zurich, Libertyville, McHenry, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Roselle, Schaumburg, Streamwood, Arlington Heights and Waukegan.

We just delivered the first home in Illinois backed by a 10-year protection program

Here's HOW:

We're proud to be recognized as the first home builder in Chicagoland to be members of the HOW program. HOW stands for Home Owners Warranty—a nationally-insured plan that protects new home buyers against defects in materials and workmanship.

Here's how it works. The warranty protects your home against major structural defects for ten years. During the first year, the builder provides a warranty that materials and workmanship meet HOW's approved standards. During the second year, the builder continues to be responsible for defects in wiring, piping, ductwork and major structural defects. For the next eight years, insurance in the HOW program protects against major structural defects.

We've almost reached the end of the Trails. Nearly all the homes in our award-winning community, the Trails at Woodfield, are sold already. But there are still a select number of townhomes available—many in choice locations. Our low 7¾% interest can make owning one possible. Financing with just 5% down helps too. Visit our furnished models today.

Hole-by-hole examination of Paddock tourney site

This is a hole-by-hole description of Buffalo Grove Golf Club, host of the 26th annual Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament this Sunday:

No. 1, par 4, 390 yards — Tee shots must stay left so second shots to the green will be unimpeded. To speed up tourney play, there will be no penalty stroke if a shot goes into the adjacent ninth fairway.

No. 2, par 5, 480 yards — If you're properly warmed up, if the prevailing wind isn't blowing too hard in your face and if you hit two solid shots, then this could be your best chance for a birdie on the front nine.

No. 3, par 4, 380 yards — The wind could help you on this one, making it a little easier than usual. A very accurate second shot is required to avoid the deep bunkers to either side of the green. Poor club selection could leave you in a creekbed a few yards behind the green.

No. 4, par 3, 200 yards— This is the only lengthy par 3 on the course When the breezes are stiff, a driver might be required off the tee. And with just 26 yards of open space between the green's traps, a mighty straight drive is required.

No. 5, par 5, 520 yards — Again, if the wind is strong out of the west, this hole could be tremendously tough. The fourth and fifth holes just might be the most difficult back-to-back tests at Buffalo Grove. The creek comes into play if second shots are hooked. A sliced second swing will leave a very testy third shot which must carry a bunker and then stop very fast on a flat, hard-to-hold green.

No. 6, par 4, 350 yards — The wind, if there's any, should be with the golfers the rest of the front nine starting here. But so is the out-of-bounds fence. Nevertheless, this is definitely a par hole for average players.

No. 7, par 4, 370 yards — Again, the seventh is another good par possibility. Its' highly banked green will hold just about any kind of second shot.

No. 8, par 3, 150 yards — If you can hit a straight middle iron, the eighth will be a welcome site. Fifty yards shorter than the first par 3 on the front nine, it also offers handicap golfers still another good chance for a par.

No. 9, par 4, 400 yards — Some golfers will be pleased with a bogey on the ninth. Five traps, a corn field on the left and a rolling green make this a fine finishing hole.

No. 10, par 4, 430 yards — The only good thing to say about this hole is it's picturesque. Making it so is a creek running parallel with the fairway, several stands of huge trees and a perfectly placed trap to the front and right side of the green. Double bogeys come quickly here.

No. 11, par 4, 375 yards — Stay to the right and most of the trouble will be avoided. Since this hole is adjacent to No. 10, the same trouble exists for the hooker — the creek. If the pin is placed near the front of the green, avoid hitting to the back part or a very lengthy, downhill putt could add three quick strokes to your total.

No. 12, par 5, 500 yards — You'll need two big blasts to get near enough to the green for an easy par. On hand to make sure you're not careless are out of bounds, traps and a creek that cuts across the fairway. A solid second shot should easily clear this latter hazard.

No. 13, par 4, 380 yards — Golfers used to cut this extreme dogleg, but now the risk is too great. The little trees have matured to a point where some second shots become almost non-existent. If contestants play down the middle or slightly to the left of center, their second shots will be to a wide open green.

No. 14, par 3, 160 yards — The distance can be deceiving due to a lack of a good background. Some golfers may find themselves landing short of the putting surface.

No. 15, par 4, 355 yards — A strong, tremendous slice could reach water on the right side of the fairway. The same can be said of a hook as the out of bounds fence is also near. But as most holes goes, this is a fine driving hole. Should a golfer connect, the hole's short enough to leave him a pitch to the green and a possible birdie.

No. 16, par 5, 485 yards — If you birdie the 15th you won't feel so bad if you blow a stroke on the 16th. Drives should be hit down the middle or slightly to the right to avoid at all costs the creek on the left. The second shot is the most demanding. It must be placed in a narrow stretch of land which has water on both sides. After two perfect hits, the approach shot must clear a big trap and hold a green that slopes away from the golfer and toward another pond. Those who part this hole should be proud.

No. 17, par 3, 135 yards — Only a pulled shot or one that's hit fat will find water here. If handicappers can forget the pond, this should be another good par possibility because it's the shortest piece of real estate on either nine.

No. 18, par 4, 425 yards — Since this final hole flanks the driving range, out of bounds exists on the right. Drives hit to the left of the right fairway bunker should leave open second shots to the green. Three sand traps and a row of trees to the right along a dried up creek make the final hole interesting.

Growing up

Maturing Buffalo Grove offers stiff challenge

Paul Logan
Associate Sports Editor

"One of these days it's going to be a very, very challenging golf course."

Al Griffith, Buffalo Grove Golf Club's head professional, was speaking of his 18-hole layout — the site of the 26th annual Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament Sunday.

In other words, his par 72, 6465-yard (from the middle tees) course is presently "only" a very challenging test. It will probably receive the extra "very" when this still young (eight years old) course is more mature.

It's plenty tough for most golfers, including those who have earned the right to play in this tourney. Those foursomes who led their respective twilight golf leagues prior to the tourney qualified.

These high handicappers will find Buffalo Grove has changed since last the Paddock tourney stopped here. Over those four years, the fairways have become more lush, the greens truer and the trees bigger.

"I've noticed this year that the trees look a lot fuller than they ever have," said Griffith. "People used to take shortcuts here and it really spoiled some of the holes (like the 13th — a sharp dogleg)."

Golfers still can take the shortcut, but they pay the price if they land behind these former saplings. Even if their shot isn't impeded, Buffalo Grove now has rough to penalize the greedy. "We used to cut it all," said Griffith.

As always, there's just enough water, wind and sand to add to the challenge. The day I played, it seemed I found almost every trap — all 54 of 'em.

The fairway bunkers "catch a lot of people who don't regularly play here," said the Buffalo Grove pro. "Fairway bunkers are one of the most difficult shots there are."

From the middle (red) tees, someone who hits a drive of about 200-210 yards can reach these fairway obstacles. Even if they can be avoided, every green is well bunkered.

When I did manage to avoid the beaches, many times Buffalo Grove's huge greens gave me frustration. Three-putt greens plagued me four times. Almost all the greens are slightly elevated to help hold approach shots.

Those righthanded golfers who can control a slice will have a more enjoyable day than hookers. Out of bounds on the left can penalize the latter at six spots (6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 13th, and 15th holes) and water awaits them on four others (10th, 11th, 16th and 17th holes).

Nevertheless, barring heavy downpours prior to the tourney, a controlled hook should roll a long way.

The front nine was the least difficult for me. Only three holes seemed especially tough — the fourth, fifth and ninth.

"It's a very tough par three," said Griffith of the fourth — a 200-yarder. "The prevailing wind is coming at you. I've used a driver there all the way down to a 6-iron."

The fifth, a par 5, 520 yards long, also heads into the westerly breezes. It's a dogleg with a creek on the left and strategically placed traps. The hole calls for a 'finesse third shot," said Griffith. "It's not that easy" because of the flatness of the green. "It's very seldom hit in two."

The ninth is a very slight dogleg to the left with a corn field awaiting any pulled shot. Add a handful of traps as well as a tricky green and you have a fine finishing hole.

"The back nine requires a little morethinking," pointed out Griffith.

"The 10th is the hardest hole over there — 450 yards. It's about 420 from the middle tee. It requires two fine golf shots — a lon or a wood. The creek runs parallel (to the fairway). A lot of drives go in there."

Since it's one of the few holes that has huge trees, second and third shots could pose problems.

No hole on the course has a tougher third shot than the 16th. On paper it appears easy — a par 5, only 485 yards long. Live and in color, it's a killer.

"The 16th is the most fun," cracked Griffith. (For me, it turned out to be a double bogey.) "You have to make decisions on your drive and your second shot."

This dogleg to the left has a creek accompanying it all the way to the green. If you try to cut off too much dogleg, you'll find water as I did. Even if you play two perfect shots, the third's plenty tough because the green's hard to hit. It is small and slopes away from a golfer.

One of my mistakes in failing to break 90 was not warming up properly at the club's driving range. Contestants should check the Herald for their tee-off times so that they can arrive early enough to practice.

If it is a normal third Sunday in August, the heat will be extreme. Those wishing to save their energy and ride golf carts should contact the course for reservations.

If there's a player who seeks a further challenge, Lino Marini has posted one. This Buffalo Grove amateur holds the course record with a magnificent 65. Any takers?

ONCE YOU'RE ON THE 16th green, you'll quite possibly be mentally spent. Those golfers playing in the Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Tournament at Buffalo Grove Golf Club will find the par 5, 485-yard test super tough. Those who par this hazardous hole Sunday in the 26th annual tournament will have used plenty of thought as well as muscle.

Palatine Hills crowns champs in three groups

The competition featured 73 golfers over 18 holes and was conducted by the Palatine Hills Men's Golf Assn. with Ernie Purcelli, Jim Takahashi and Frank Robinson in charge.

Cannon took the 17-and 18-year-old division with an 82 and was followed by Bob Capoun with 83 and John Bols with 85.

Witt won the 14-15-16 trophy with a playoff victory over Mike Carroll after both boys had finished with 77s. Rich Cleveland was third with an 81.

Cyboran was a six-shot winner in the 12-13 category with a sparkling 83. Paul Bateman was runnerup at 89 and Joe DiMarco third at 90.

Trophies were presented to the top three golfers in each division.

Conner gives United States medal in gym

Two area men served on the panel of judges that worked the Pre-Olympic Gymnastics Games in Montreal.

Sid Drain of Maine West and Tom Walthouse of Arlington were two of the four United States judges in the competition that saw Illinois high school star Bart Conner of Niles West in a spectacular performance.

Conner, only a senior in high school, was the top-ranking United States gymnast in the action with the best performers in the world. The 17-year-old was 10th in the All-Around with 107.45, needing just a 108 to win his World Class pin, and he took a bronze medal on the parallel bars with 9.35.

"I don't think anyone expected Bart to be that high," said Drain, "but he did just a fantastic job. It's been a long time since a United States gymnast has won an international medal like this."

Conner's next major competition will be Sept. 26-27 at the University of Illinois Circle Campus when he battles in the Pan American Games trials.

Drain and Walthouse now rank as leading candidates to become official United States judges for the Olympics games in Montreal. Two men will be selected.

Bloomington hosts Illinois test

Six area golfers in state amateur

Six area golfers will be going for the crown of the 45th annual Illinois State Amateur Golf Championship, which begins Tuesday, Aug. 19 and runs through Aug. 21 at Bloomington Country Club.

Ed Moehling Jr., was the last area entrant to win first place, with back-to-back titles in 1960 and 1961. He was a resident of Mount Prospect and a former Arlington High School golf star.

This year's area golfers are Schaumburg's Tom Jacobsen and Brent Inman, Palatine's Len Fiocca and Cliff Garcia, Arlington Heights' Brad Stake, and Mount Prospect's Craig Ridley.

The two qualifying rounds earlier pared the total entry of 430 to a championship field of 137. Fifty-six places were alloted at Kankakee Country Club, 48 at Flossmoor, and 33 exempt entries were received.

Only those golfers whose handicaps are five or under may enter the event while former champions and the low thirty scorers and ties in the previous championship are exempt from qualifying.

The state championship has been held twice at Bloomington, in 1953 and 1946. Since then a new irrigation system has been installed and trees have been planted strategically to toughen the course.

Brad Barker of Bloomington, a contestant this year, holds the course record with a 34-32-66 shot in July, 1973.

Archery meeting

All girls interested in competing on the Forest View High School archery team are asked to meet at 9 a.m. Monday, Aug. 18, at the garage area of the school.

HEAVYWEIGHT champion Muhammad Ali embraces his four-year-old daughter, Rasheda, at his Pennsylvania training camp.

Bears acquire veteran center

The Chicago Bears made a trade to bolster their offensive line by acquiring veteran center John Didion of the New Orleans Saints Wednesday.

Didion, a seven-year vet who was the Saints' most valuable player last season, came to the Bears for an undisclosed draft choice. The 6-foot-4, 255-pound four-year starter for New Orleans was with the Washington Redskins prior to joining the Saints.

Earlier in the day, the Bears just barely made it under the National Football League's active roster deadline of 63 players by placing three on waivers and putting two others on the injured list.

Two of the three waived were veterans — Randy Jackson and Don Hultz. Chicago also waived rookie center Wes Miller of Utah State. The latter had been acquired just two weeks before in a trade with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The club put cornerback Joe Taylor, who is recovering from a blood clot in his calf, and wide receiver Tom Reynolds, who had a knee operation earlier, on the injured reserve list.

Jackson, 31, played offensive tackle for eight years — longer than any other player on the Chicago roster. He was selected just before linebacker Doug Buffone in the 1966 draft.

White Sox defeat Indians in 12th inning

Trailing 3-2 going into the bottom of the seventh, the Chicago White Sox pushed across one run to deadlock the game Wednesday night at Sox Park. However, neither team could manage to score after that, forcing the game into extra innings.

Pete Varney walked with the bases loaded and two out to give the Sox a 4-3 victory.

Claude Osteen started for the Sox. He was touched for two first-inning runs. His teammates battled back in the second to tie things at 2-all.

Cleveland took the lead in the fifth as Osteen was replaced on the mound by Rich Gossage. Don Hood started for the Indians with Dave LaRoche coming on in the seventh. Jim Bibby took over in the 10th, battling Gossage.

The Sox had an excellent chance in the 11th. After one out, Brian Downing and Pat Kelly walked. Bucky Dent, who had singled twice earlier including the RBI that tied things at 3-3 in the seventh, came to the plate. But Dent grounded into a double play.

NCAA considering grid playoff

A playoff for a national college football championship might be possible as early as January 1977, according to a NCAA feasibility committee spokesman Wednesday at the Chicago meetings. The thinking of the committee now is that the teams selected for the title games would be picked from the bowl teams . . .

Chicago Bulls' guard Matt Goukas defeated former Bull backcourt man Bobby Weiss 6-1, 6-2 in the singles championship of the Maurice Stokes Memorial Tennis Classic in New York. The tourney was in conjunction with the 17th annual Stokes memorial basketball game . . .

Adding experience and speed to an already talent-laden lineup, the Oakland A's picked up outfielder Tommy Harper from California for the $20,000 waiver price. Harper has batted .239, stroked three homers, driven in 31 and stolen 19 bases in 89 previous games . . .

Muhammad Ali said he planned to breed horses on the 80-acre farm he purchased in the rolling countryside of western Michigan at Berrien Springs. Ali, who defends his world heavyweight title against Joe Frazier in Manila Sept. 30, said he would move to the farm immediately after the fight. Ali said he bought the farm over the weekend because he wanted a home near Chicago, about an hour's drive.

Dustan names June leader

James Dustan, vice president of T. A. Bolger, Realtors, Rolling Meadows office, announced that Deane Wandersee was the sales leader for the month of June. This marks the third month in a row that Mrs. Wandersee has been the sales leader of the office and six out of the last 12 months since joining Bolger Realtors in April, 1974.

Deane Wandersee

Mrs. Wandersee and her family have lived in Rolling Meadows for the past 20 years. She is presently serving her third year as president of the Rolling Meadows Community Chest and served as a member of the Zone III Finance and Allocations Committee of the Suburban Council of Community Chests. Mrs. Wandersee is also a member of the City of Rolling Meadows Zoning Board of Appeals.

Ground broken

Officials of DeSoto, Inc., Des Plaines, and Sears, Roebuck and Company, broke ground June 11 for a 40,000 square foot addition to its Garland, Texas coatings plant. The plant produces paints, resins and coatings for consumer and industrial applications.

According to Tom Lester, Garland plant manager, the new addition will be used to produce water base latex paint. Oil base industrial and consumer coatings will be manufactured in the existing facility which contains 152,000 square feet and employs more than 170 personnel.

The ground breaking ceremony also was the occasion for the Garland plant to receive a "Symbol of Excellence" award from Sears, Roebuck and Co., Chicago, for development and delivery of high quality paint products. Presenting the award to DeSoto employes were C. D. Thompson, buyer for Sears exterior paint products, and Ernest Ries, general merchandise manager for Sears southwest territory. The Garland plant has received this award seven times in the last nine years.

June leaders listed

Jack Holding, president of Holding O'Connor Blaeser Real Estate, has announced the sale leaders for the company during the month of June. Leading all associates was Jill Creager from the Hoffman Estates office.

Jim Maloney, sales manager of the company's Arlington Heights office, led the sales in his office and Dorothy Stanke led the Palatine office in sales volume for the month.

Add gloss

If you have hanging plants that reside in willowy wicker baskets, the National Paint and Coatings Association suggests that you shine the baskets with a few applications of a clear acrylic spray coating. The glossy protection will add drama to the already impressive display.

Some good advice for rose growers

Regardless of the type rose one grows, one should keep in mind that all flower production is dependent on leaf production. To get the most out of your roses, follow these easy steps:

- Keep the soil around the roses moist but not wet. New growth which is stressed by lack of water doesn't ever fully recover.
- Mulch the plants in the summer to keep soil temperatures cooler.
- Cut off all old flowers before seeding starts. Blooming time can sometimes be prolonged and quality of flowers improved if old flowers are removed.
- Spray for insects and diseases. Use malathion for aphids which usually are the worst insect pest and phaltan for control of black spot. One can wait to see the insects before spraying, but one has to apply the fungicide before the leaves become diseased. Fungicides are effective only when used to prevent diseases — they cannot cure the disease once it starts.
- Feed early in growth and feed often through the summer. Use a balanced fertilizer — avoid high nitrogen fertilizers.

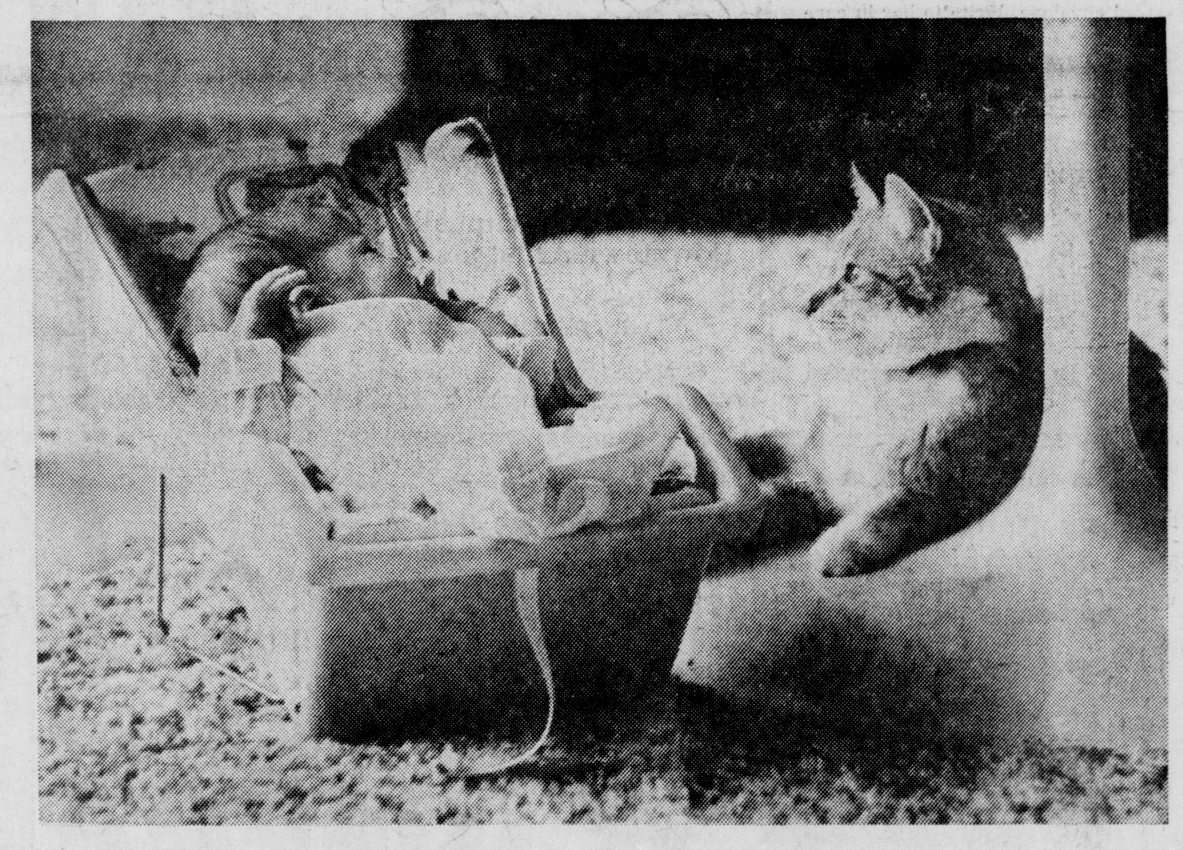
JUST AN ARMFUL for Jim and Pat Disch, Des Plaines, are their two-month-old triplets. According to the doctor's statistics, only one in 27,000 births is triplets. The two boys, Sean and Kevin, right, snoozing in their mother's arms, are identical. Little Kimberly, below, is the apple of her daddy's eye.



COCOA IS rather pensive about the new residents in the Disch home. Right now, the babies just stare back at her, but wait until they are old enough to discover that lovely, long tail.

Each day's different with triplets

by KAREN THOMPSON

Three dozen diapers and 18 feedings are daily routine for Jim and Pat Disch, parents of triplets born June 13 at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge.

Kimberly Allison, Kevin Garrick and Sean Christopher are now two months old, weigh more than eight pounds each and are on the same schedule — almost.

"People just gasp when they hear we have three babies," said Pat. "We consider it a blessing. How many people get the rewarding and exciting experience of seeing three babies grow up together?"

Actually, life around the Disch home in Des Plaines isn't as hectic as might be expected. At this young age, the babies while away most of the day eating and sleeping with changings and baths in between.

"We do have some days that are worse than others," said Pat calmly. "Yesterday we were off schedule and I fed babies from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. But the day before that, the carpet cleaners were here all morning and they thought I was kidding when I told them we had triplets."

"Every day is different," she added with a sigh.

While Pat was in the hospital recovering from the triple delivery Jim worked out a couple of systems which they still use at home. The babies are always diapered before feeding and Jim makes formula — 36 bottles worth — each evening so it's ready for the hungry babes the following day.

"IF WE'RE READY before they are, it all runs a lot smoother," said Pat, who often quips, "You can't let a few babies throw you."

Although Pat was a third grade teacher for six years, she admits that neither she nor Daddy Jim had ever had any experience with babies.

"We learned fast though," she said, "because the babies all arrived home from the hospital within the same week."

Jim, producer of the Jack Taylor Show for WGN television, works a noon to 8 p.m. shift so he eagerly takes part in the morning feedings and other tasks.

"He spends hours talking and cooing to them," Pat confessed.

"I can't see hiring someone to do the things I really want to do — to watch and help my children grow up," she said. "Perhaps, sometime, we'll need help with the housework, but at this time we're doing just fine."

"Pregnancy conditions you to understand you can't accomplish what you did before. When I found out I was pregnant, I wondered if I would be bored at home all day, every day, but with three to care for I don't even have time to think about it," she continued.

PEOPLE HAVE all kinds of helpful and sometimes rather tactless suggestions for Pat and Jim's new family.

"They tell us we should sell our 3-bedroom home and get a bigger one. They can't understand how we can get along with our small cars — a Pinto and a Camaro. One lady even suggested that I invest in some leashes," said Pat with a look of disgust.

Photos by Dom Najolia

But Pat and Jim have adjusted well. They tell about the triplets' first party — of course they were the center of attention. They laugh at the ribbing Jim gets at the studio and the baptism procession that resembled a wedding party in size. They wonder about the future.

"We're glad they don't look exactly alike. We didn't give them names that rhyme and we won't necessarily dress them alike. That will be up to them to decide."

Even now, at two months, each of the babies has characteristics that are especially their own. "Kim is very impatient and cries the loudest," said Pat, adding that Kim's learning at an early age she's the only female in the trio.

"Sean stretches a lot so maybe he'll be the athlete. Kevin is the most observant so maybe he'll be a good student," she contemplated.

"WE HOPE TO bring out whatever each child is best in. We'll give equal credit to build their self-images and it's important that each child knows that what he or she does is just as good as the others."

She also imagines, with a wince, the "terrible twos" and the day they all get their drivers' licenses. "But we'll cross those bridges when we get to them," Pat said.

Pat points to a picture on the refrigerator taken shortly before delivery when people ask if she knew she was expecting triplets. She gained 50 pounds and attests to the fact that her body was everywhere she looked.

"I have no horror stories about any part of my pregnancy," she said. "I was very healthy and not uncomfortable until the last couple days."

Pat taught school until the last day which was three days before the triplets were born. "Working was good for me because it kept my mind of my body," she said, looking down at herself, now 65 pounds lighter.

"Everyone, including Jim and I, thought we would have twins. About a week and a half before I delivered, Dr. Frank Hesser hinted that it might be triplets," said Pat.

"I went home and told Jim to sit down because I had something very important to tell him." Mr. and Mrs. Disch didn't have much time to contemplate their expected family — they didn't even get to finish their Lamaze classes.

THE PROUD father took part in the whole delivery, watching Kimberly, 4 pounds 5 ounces, Kevin, 4 pounds 11 ounces, and Sean, 4 pounds 3 ounces, make their way into the world.

"We were lucky that our doctor was so understanding. Most often fathers are excluded from the delivery room in multiple births," Pat explained. Jim said he wouldn't have missed it for the world.

The babies now eat solid food, Pat has become accustomed to feeding simultaneously with the spoon in one hand, a bottle in the other and Jim has taped the babies crying to get back at the wisecrackers in the office.

There's just Cocoa the cat, wondering why there's a baby everywhere he turns.

Silk lampshade may be washed if not glued

Dear Dorothy: I find cleaning plastic lampshades a cinch, but I'm scared stiff about washing the silk ones. I've dusted them, of course, but do I dare wash them? And if so, how? — Mrs. Leroy Meeker.

Yes, you dare, providing that the silk lampshade is sewed rather than glued. If it's glued, let the cleaner do the worrying. With the sewed kind, you first need to vacuum the shade to get off all surface dirt. Fill the bathtub with enough warm water to cover the shade, add detergent and mix it around until it is fully dissolved. Then put the shade into the water, swishing it up, down and around. If there are any stains, use a well-lathered soft brush on them. Use several changes of water to make sure the shade is thoroughly rinsed. To dry it, tie a string to the middle of the frame and let it hang over the bathtub or tie it to an outdoor clothesline. Or you can pat it almost dry with a bath towel.

Dear Dorothy: On one of our trips into the country, we brought some corn to eat immediately, some to freeze. We've long used and loved frozen corn. Suddenly I realize some I have in the freezer is about a year old. Do you think it's still good? — Clarice Murray.

Yes, if it was blanched properly and wrapped right. All things being equal, you can count on a supply of frozen vegetables staying good from one season to the next.

Dear Dorothy: Let me share with your many fans a simple lunch my children love. I spread a thin layer of seasoned ground beef on a piece of toast — right to the edge of the toast, and not too thick as it will be broiled on one side only. When done just as they like it, I put on a slice of American cheese and pull it out just as the cheese melts. — Helen Kangas.

Infant mortality down

Babies today have a better chance than ever of growing to adulthood. The Institute of Life Insurance says an analysis of government statistics indicates that last year's mortality rate of 16.5 per 1,000 live births was the lowest annual rate ever recorded in the United States.

Len Mayers honeymoon in Poconos

A week at Cove Haven Resort in the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania was the honeymoon for Susan Jean Altman of Palatine and Leonard Joseph Mayer, Brookfield. The newlyweds, who were married July 19 in St. Paul United Church of Christ, Palatine, are now residing in their new home in Berwyn.

Daughter of the Charles Altmans, Palatine, Susan is a '74 graduate of Fremd High and is now employed by Colfax Welding, Palatine. Her bridegroom, son of the Leonard Mayers, Brookfield, is a '70 graduate of Lyons Township High and is with Fine Finishing Co., Brookfield.

For the 4 p.m. double ring, candlelight service Susan wore a dotted voile gown trimmed in Cluny and Venise lace. Her headpiece, trimmed in Venise lace, held a shoulder-length veil, and she carried a nosegay of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath with pink roses.

MAID OF HONOR was her sister, Penny, and her sister-in-law, Judy Altman, and Alexis Chidichimo, both of Palatine, were bridesmaids. The girls wore cotton voile gowns in white with orchid flowers and carried nosegays of white daisies, baby's breath and roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Mayer

Amity Altman, 3-year-old niece of the bride, was flower girl wearing a pink and white flowered gown and carrying a miniature bouquet of the same flowers as the bridesmaids. Billy Mikkelson, 7, Woodstock, was ring bearer.

Best man was Mike Grimmenga, Sun Prairie, Wis., and ushers were the couple's brothers, Lee Altman, Palatine, and Richard Mayer, San Antonio.

A reception for 120 guests was held in the Plum Grove Club.

A reminder to brides

If wedding bells will soon be ringing in your family, we want to hear them, too.

The Herald reminds brides-to-be of the deadlines in effect for reporting wedding news. Full information is printed on forms available in all the Herald offices.

For detailed wedding story (including gown descriptions) information is due within three weeks following wedding date. Information received in Herald office after three weeks and up to five weeks following wedding date will be used for a brief story or caption.

Accompanying picture should be a black and white glossy close-up photo (bouquet and up) of bridal pair or bride alone. At the discretion of the editors and the Herald photo department, color photos may or may not be used, depending on color tones, contrast and clarity. Small snapshots are not acceptable.

We suggest the bride or some member of the family select a photo for the newspaper immediately upon receiving photographer's proof. Better yet — have the photographer make a selection and send it immediately to the Herald office. Any delay may mean missing the deadline.

If your photographer cannot comply with deadlines, write-up will be published without a photo providing information is in the Herald office before the deadline.

The bride who wishes her photo returned may pick it up at the Herald office at 217 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights, or send along a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

There is no charge for publishing this news.

Juniors plan membership teas

Informative coffees and teas have been scheduled by local junior women's clubs to acquaint prospective members with clubwomen, membership requirements and the specific activities and projects planned by each club for the coming year.

Arlington Heights Juniors will hostess two coffees at 8 p.m. — one on Aug. 19 at the home of Donna Terbell and the second on Aug. 27 at the home of Peggy Frerk. Mrs. Frerk, who is the membership chairman, may be contacted at 392-1656 for additional information.

Buffalo Grove Juniors will hold a membership tea Saturday, Sept. 6, at 1 p.m. at the home of Ginny Polkow. She may be contacted at 537-0633 by women interested in attending.

The Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines is holding an ice cream social for prospective members tonight at the home of Gail Taylor. A garden tea will follow Sunday, Sept. 7 from 2-4 p.m. at the home of Claudia Slonski. Interested women may contact Ann Schnaedter at 296-7244 for details.

ELK GROVE Village Juniors are hostessing three informal coffees for prospective members. Each is scheduled at 8 p.m. Hostesses include: Kris Loenneki, Aug. 26; Claire Johannesen, Aug. 28; and Barbara Norris, Sept. 4. Membership chairman is Kathy McDougald who may be contacted at 439-2437 for additional information.

Mount Prospect Juniors have planned a membership tea for Sunday, Sept. 7 at 3 p.m. at the home of the membership chairman, Connie Carosielli. She may be contacted at 255-7206 by women interested in attending.

Rolling Meadows Juniors have scheduled a membership coffee for Thursday, Sept. 25, at 8 p.m. at the home of their membership chairman, Phylllis Peszek. Details are available by contacting her at 392-6317.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the membership teas and coffees is made this week as local communities celebrate Junior Clubwoman Week Aug. 10-17 in recognition of the contributions junior clubs have made to their respective communities and to encourage prospective membes.

This week local libraries, municipal buildings, park district offices and the Northwest Suburban YMCA are featuring displays of club activities. Other areas of club service include the arts, conservation, education, health, home life, public affairs and international affairs.

Each club holds meetings during the evening for the convenience of members.

by Monica Wilch Perin

Last December a notice ran in this space from Peter Fish, manager of public affairs at Blue Cross Blue Shield, saying he stood ready to "help resolve subscribers' claim problems as quickly as possible.

It was suggested that readers with a BCBS problem contact Fish; his address and phone number were given; and readers were urged to let The Herald know if they didn't get results.

A short time later, a Palatine man wrote to The Herald, chronicling a five-year battle with Blue Cross Blue Shield over several claims, one dating back to 1969. The man had gratefully written to Mr. Fish — and heard nothing. He called Mr. Fish, was put on hold, then disconnected. So he wrote to me.

I WROTE TO Mr. Fish — and heard nothing. A period of time elapsed, and the Palatine man contacted The Herald again. I called Mr. Fish, who was on vacation. There was no one else at Blue Cross Blue Shield standing in for Mr. Fish, no one else who could help. A week later, on the day Mr. Fish was to return, I called again. Mr. Fish was still on vacation.

After much hassle, I reached Mr. Fish's superior, William Miller, and he immediately turned the problem over to Judy Quirk of Special Inquiries. The Palatine man and I received letters from Ms. Quirk the next day acknowledging that the problem was being looked into.

Two weeks later, I called to find out how Ms. Quirk was doing. No one at Blue Cross seemed to have heard of her. I told them she was in Special Inquiries. After a pause, someone came on the line and said that the Special Inquiries Department "doesn't take outside communications. You can't call them, and I can't transfer you."

WHEN PRESSED rather strongly on the matter, Blue Cross finally produced Ms. Quirk, who reported that the case was being worked on by Mr. Fish, who was now back from vacation.

Ms. Quirk — and subsequently Mr. Fish — pointed out that it was difficult to resolve the Palatine man's problem because it went back so far.

"None of the records exist anymore. If he had come to us sooner, it would have been much easier."

With utmost control, I pointed out that the Palatine man, his doctor and his laboratory had been filing and refiling these claims since early in1970. They had been told by a string of Blue Cross representatives over this period of time that:

1) the claims hadn't been received; 2) the time limit on the claims had expired; 3) the claims had been paid, but no documents could be found to prove it; 4) the claims had not been paid but would be; 5) the person who had been handling the case has been taken off it and no one knows anything about it; 6) a new person has been assigned to look into it — give us six months; 7) give us three more months.

ON JULY 30, 1975, Peter Fish wrote to the Palatine man enclosing $83 "which should have been issued for your laboratory services in 1969 and 1970."

What in the world has been the problem all these years?

"I don't know," said Mr. Fish.

Why didn't the Palatine man or The Herald hear from you last winter when we wrote you letters?

"I don't know."

Mr. and Mrs. John Bandy

Bride's 'something old' was a bracelet of gold

An antique gold bracelet belonging to her grandmother was the "something old" worn by Linda Ann Becker when she became the bride July 19 of James Michael Dolan. The couple, who met during their senior year at Prospect High, are both from Arlington Heights, Linda the daughter of the Earl Beckers and James the son of Mrs. Audrey Dolan.

Their 3 p.m. double ring service was held in St. James Church, Arlington Heights, with Linda wearing a gown of white lace trimmed in seed pearls, and a Juliet cap of lace and seed pearls holding her veil. She carried white carnations, yellow baby roses and baby's breath with stephanotis.

IN MINT green dotted swiss gowns and white garden hats were Irene Kozer of Chicago, maid of honor, and June Czerechowicz, Mount Prospect, and Vickie Smith, Chicago, bridesmaids. The girls carried mint green carnations, yellow roses and green baby's breath.

David Dolan was his brother's best man, and his brother, Mike, and David Cook, all of Arlington Heights, were ushers.

A RECEPTION for 150 guests was held at Przybylo's House of the White Eagle in Niles, after which the newlyweds left for a honeymoon in northern Wisconsin. They are now residing in their own home in Arlington Heights.

The new Mrs. Dolan, a '74 graduate of Northeastern Illinois University, is with Forest City in Mount Prospect.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Dolan

Her bridegroom, a '74 graduate of the University of Illinois — Circle, is with Mount Prospect State Bank.

Elizabeth Thomas to be fall bride

Arlington Heights residents Mr. and Mrs. John W. Thomas announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Ann, to John Jerome Beck, son of Mrs. James Young, Wilmette. The wedding will be in September.

Elizabeth studied at Arlington High School and is employed in Wilmette as a dental assistant. Her fiance graduated from New Trier High and is with LaSalle Crittenden Press Co., Chicago.

Sue Dixon, med student wed in St. Emily Church

Newlyweds Susan and John Bandy are making their home in Peoria where the bridegroom is a third year student at the University of Illinois College of Medicine.

They were married July 5 in St. Emily Catholic Church, Mount Prospect, and then greeted their wedding guests at a dinner at the William Tell in Countryside.

The bride, the former Susan Dixon, is the daughter of the Lester Dixons of Des Plaines. She graduated from Maine West High School and the University of Illinois and has been teaching special education in Sunnyland.

JOHN'S PARENTS are the Elmer Bandys of Raymond, Ill., and he is also a University of Illinois graduate.

Maid of honor for the 2:30 p.m. double ring ceremony was Katie Mandell of Des Plaines and bridesmaids were Karen Dixon, the bride's sister, and Lynn Ishida, Chicago.

The groom chose Bruce Molitoris, Loami, Ill., as best man. Groomsmen were Bob Mulch, Riverside, and Paul Leder, the groom's brother-in-law from Glen Ellyn. Ushers were Gary Davidson, cousin of the bride from Brookfield; Jerry Quindry, Urbana; and Jim Bray, the groom's cousin from Springfield.

Students sing during July 4 wedding rites

St. John Lutheran School students of Jan Stoeckel sang during her wedding July 4 to Rick Anderson, son of the Harry L. Andersons, Mount Prospect. Jan is the daughter of the Ralph Stoeckels of Lombard where St. John School is also located.

The couple's 5:30 p.m. double ring wedding took place in St. John's Church, Lombard, and was followed by a reception for 200 at Indian Lakes Country club, Bloomingdale. Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Judy, and bridesmaids were Carol Taylor, Parmake, S.D.; Phyllis Thilke, Florissant, Mo.; Kathy Hajek, Hinsdale; and Linda Smigaj, Lombard.

ATTENDING RICK as best man was his brother, Roger, and ushers were Michael Randazzo, Des Plaines; Roger Keller, Rolling Meadows; Scott Huberty, Skokie; and Don Wilke, Art Johnson and Garry Puetz, all of Chicago.

The couple honeymooned in Wisconsin and Michigan and are now at home in Wood Dale.

Both Jan and Rick studied at Concordia Teachers College in Seward, Neb. Rick, who also studied at Augustana College in Rock Island, is with the Internal Revenue Service.

Birth notes

Two sets twins arrive in one hour

Two sets of twins, all girls, were born within about an hour on Sunday, Aug. 10, at Holy Family Hospital. It was the first time in the hospital's 14-year history that two sets of twins were born on the same day within such a short period of time.

One set of the twins was born to Mr. and Mrs. Arturo Diaz Rios, 416 Circle Hill Dr., Arlington Heights, at 9:30 and 9:45 a.m. One of the girls, Lisa, weighed 4 pounds and the other, Gina, weighed 4 pounds, 6 ounces. The twins were the Rios' first children. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Epimenio Garcia, Palatine, and Mr. and Mrs. Suan Rios, Franklin Park.

The other set of twins, Melina and Melissa, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. Wilkoszewski of Chicago, at 10:41 and 10:43 a.m.

That's right. They're happy because they've had a great year. And we'd like to tell you about it.

They're the Dave Modene Agency of Mt. Prospect. For some time now, they've been serving Lutherans in your area with good insurance coverage from Aid Association for Lutherans. And they've been doing a good job.

But 1974 was a special year. Dave and his people worked harder than ever. They grew in size, so there are a few new faces in the picture. They served more Lutherans than before with AAL coverage. They became even more involved in fraternal and benevolence activities. And they helped AAL members find new ways to share God's gifts with those in need.

You can see why we're really proud of Dave and his entire agency. So proud, in fact, that we recognized their efforts with a special Agency Builders Award. And we only gave two of those awards in the entire country.

To Dave and his people, the award means more than one thousand AAL representatives and one million AAL members all over America are saying "nice going." To Lutherans in your area, it means having very good people working with you. They're helpful, concerned—and happy.

Even a good gardener can goof

Potting shed
by Mary B. Good

I go bananas over county fairs. Maybe it's because I marvel at all the flowers and vegetables that seem so perfectly timed to show on fair dates.

I just got home from our local county fair and still can't get over the fact that the pansies didn't look like the last rose of summer, and the pumpkins that were entered were mammoth for so early in the season.

The people who enter county fairs must truly be fantastic gardeners.

I've had my share of fun entering fairs, but for me it was always near disaster. I'll never forget the time I made my husband get up at two in the morning so we could drive down to Springfield for the state fair before the heat of the day affected my gladioli. After driving 250 miles with eight glads propped between my fingers, my hand fell asleep and as we hit a bump the top florets broke off, demolishing my chances to win anything.

IT TAKES A REAL cool head to get some of these things to a fair. A number of years ago I carted to a fair a terrarium weighing 60 pounds. I figured I deserved a ribbon just for lugging the thing.

I have a philodendron selluom named Walter. Each of Walter's leaves is 14 inches long with a 2-foot stem. I think Walter could win a ribbon, but he too awkward to carry, and with my luck the leaves wouldn't be 14 inches long by the time I got Walter there.

Working with a 4-H club garden group is a constant source of delight for me. The kids, too, seem to have their share of misfortunes. One told me he had tomatoes "the size of grapefruit" the day before the county fair, but on the morning he was supposed to enter, a big deer entered his vegetable patch and ate every last one!

I'VE ALSO NOTICED that whenever I ask anybody — you, even — how the garden did this year (or any year), nobody ever says it is bountiful. I've heard some of the most unbelievable stories you could imagine. The way I see it, we haven't had a good gardening year since before I started asking people how their gardens are. Every year within recent memory people have told me it's a bad yer, even when it's a good year. It's either too hot or not hot enough, too windy or too muggy, too rainy or too arid. Gardeners somehow hate to entertain the thought that maybe they goofed.

One time I had such a poor garden (being a garden writer, people think mine must surely look like Garfield Park) so I was doing all I could to save my garden writer image. One reader wanted to come out and see my "estate," maybe even bring her bridge club. I panicked.

"I'M SORRY," I told her. "You just missed it. I sent it out for cleaning and the man doesn't deliver on Wednesdays."

If you've had a poor garden this year, for whatever ridiculous reason, I'd like to know about it. We'll publish your letter in the Potting shed if you send in the funniest sob story telling about how terrible your garden was this year.

You may be just the person to bring a little lift into the lives of the rest of us, as we struggle to produce celery before the first frost hits. And it may comfort the rest of us to know that somewhere out there is somebody who shares our common foibles.

Safety rules due on aluminum wire

by MONICA WILCH PERIN

The Consumer Product Safety Commission has announced it will develop mandatory safety standards for aluminum electrical wiring in homes.

The agency declared that aluminum wiring as it was installed prior to 1971 poses an unreasonable risk of injury.

The agency also said it will hold hearings to determine whether aluminum wiring should be declared defective, in which case its manufacturers could be ordered to replace or repair the product.

The wiring, used as a substitute for copper, has resulted in faulty connections causing accidents ranging from electrical failure to 12 deaths and a quarter million dollars damage in fires.

IN HEARINGS last year and through its Hotline, the Commission says it has received 500 reports of aluminum wiring malfunctions in houses, apartments and mobile homes.

An estimated two million American homes are wired with aluminum, many of them built between 1965 and 1972. Until the mid-1960s, copper had been used almost exclusively. But as copper costs rose, aluminum was introduced as a cheaper substitute. According to the Commission, about half of all electrical cable used in the U.S. is aluminum, and "significant amounts" of aluminum have been used for branch circuit wiring in homes.

THE TROUBLE with aluminum is that it rusts, resulting in poor conduction of electricity and overheating at the connection of aluminum conductors to terminal devices, such as wall receptacles and switches, outlet and fuse boxes.

The problem is tied to a series of policy changes issued by Underwriters Laboratories from 1966 to 1974 regarding approved uses for aluminum wiring. Stricter provisions for aluminum connections were issued by UL in 1972.

The Commission also cited building code violations and poor workmanship among some of the malfunctions it investigated, but the agency emphasized that improper wiring was not a factor in the majority of incidents. It is often argued by defenders of aluminum wiring that it is not hazardous "if installed properly."

MOST OF THE Northwest suburbs have adopted the National Electrical Code or the Chicago Electrical Code, both of which allow aluminum wiring to be used with certain restrictions.

According to Robert Lindquist, electrical inspector for Rolling Meadows, which uses the Chicago Code, aluminum wiring may not be used for branch circuits in houses, only for main service feeders to the fuse box and for circuits over 30 amps. In addition, the aluminum must be coated with an anti-oxidant.

Lindquist said there has been a "problem" getting some contractors to comply with the anti-oxidant requirement. He said aluminum is not used very much, although Three Fountains apartment complex is all aluminum, he said. He said the village had one reported burn-out from aluminum wiring, a meter socket at Creekside apartments.

ALUMINUM wiring usage in other towns is as follows:

Elk Grove Village: National Code, but aluminum not used.

Wheeling: National Code, aluminum used but not inside.

Des Plaines: Chicago Code, aluminum not used inside.

Arlington Heights: Electrical inspector on vacation, no information available.

Baby photo may win a contest

Bensenville Benefactors, an adoptive parents' organization whose supporters include St. John United Church of Christ in Arlington Heights, will sponsor a baby photo contest in conjunction with the annual Bensenville Home Society's Fall Festival Sept. 7.

Infants up to 2 years old are eligible and only the first 50 pictures received by Aug. 30 will be used. Festival guests will vote for the winner who will receive a $25 savings bond.

Baby pictures up to 5 by 5 inches may be mailed with a $1 registration fee to Mrs. Donald J. Rokop, 4016 Grand Ave., Western Springs, Ill., 60558. Entrants need not be present to win.

Entertainment at the festival, to be held at the Bensenville Home Society, 331 S. York Rd., Bensenville, will feature the Dixieland jazz of the Celebration Road Show, games, picnics, boutique booths, tours of the new facility and displays depicting the history and growth of the society.

These are danger signals

Here are some of the danger signals of faulty aluminum wiring. If you observe any of these danger signs in your home, call an electrician immediately:

- An outlet or switch that is warm to the touch.
- The smell of overheated insulation, or an electrical component that is inoperative, charred or melted. Overheating is most likely to occur on circuits that carry appliances such as irons, toasters, portable heaters and electric fry pans.
- Lights that flicker.
- Extra static from a battery radio when it is brought near the faulty connection.
- Arcing, smoke or fire at the terminal.

To determine whether your home has aluminum wiring, contact the contractor or an electrician. To obtain information on detecting faulty connections, or to report a malfunction of aluminum wiring, call the Consumer Product Safety Commission Hotline, 800-638-2666.

WOULD YOU LIKE YOUR CHILD TO EXCEL IN SCHOOL?
"Accelerated Christian Education" was the answer for many this past year.
BUT

YOU MIGHT NOT LIKE CERTAIN FEATURES of the East Maine Christian Academy as a viable alternative for your child's education.

1. The Discipline is strict, the Controls are firm and the Structure is complete. There is a wholesome dress code and high moral standards for every pupil.
2. The Staff is Christian and dedicated to the Christian philosophy of life. The complete curriculum is 100% from the Christian viewpoint. There are no humanistic, socialistic, evolutionary text books.
3. There are daily Chapel or Devotional classes in which the Bible is related to life. Instructors are committed to the principles of the Bible as taught in the seminars of Bill Gothard's "Basic Youth Conflicts" . . . helping students to see life from God's viewpoint. Students are not sheltered or shielded from truth about God, creation, the Bible, salvation and the Christian life.

YOU PROBABLY WOULD LIKE THE RESULTS AT EMCA.

1. National achievement tests revealed nearly two years academic achievement in one year from grades two through high school. Kindergarten averaged 1.8 as a class in Reading Readiness tests with every pupil reading well at the end of the year.
2. With no lock-step classes to hold back and frustrate the bright student, one eighth grade student gained four years in one year in the national achievement tests and several gained three full years. One seven year old girl advanced from eighty words per minute to four hundred words per minute after advancing to fifth grade reading level, with well over eighty percent comprehension.
3. With individualized education there are no unfair group pressures of lock-step classes to discourage the slower student and damage the self image for life. Individualized education with maximum motivation from Christian teachers and built in incentives brought amazing results. One such sixth grade student scored far below grade level in national achievement tests upon entering EMCA in September. By the following May he gained two and one-half years and was rapidly catching up to full grade level.
4. Reading speeds, with eighty per cent or better comprehension, increased on the McGraw Hill Controlled Readers, for the second grade through high school by one hundred and seventy eight percent. College norms are two hundred and eighty words per minute, but the EMCA averaged three hundred and seventy one words per minute by the end of the year.

EAST MAINE CHRISTIAN ACADEMY is part of the national Accelerated Christian Education program and offers a total school program for Pre-school, Kindergarten, First grade through High School with Dr. Mostafa Elsayed, Ph.D., Principal and Rev. Louis Maple serving as Superintendent.

The "SLIDE PRESENTATION" and "OPEN HOUSE," August 19, 7:30 p.m. will best explain the school, how "Accelerated Christian Education" works and why it works so well. The public is invited.

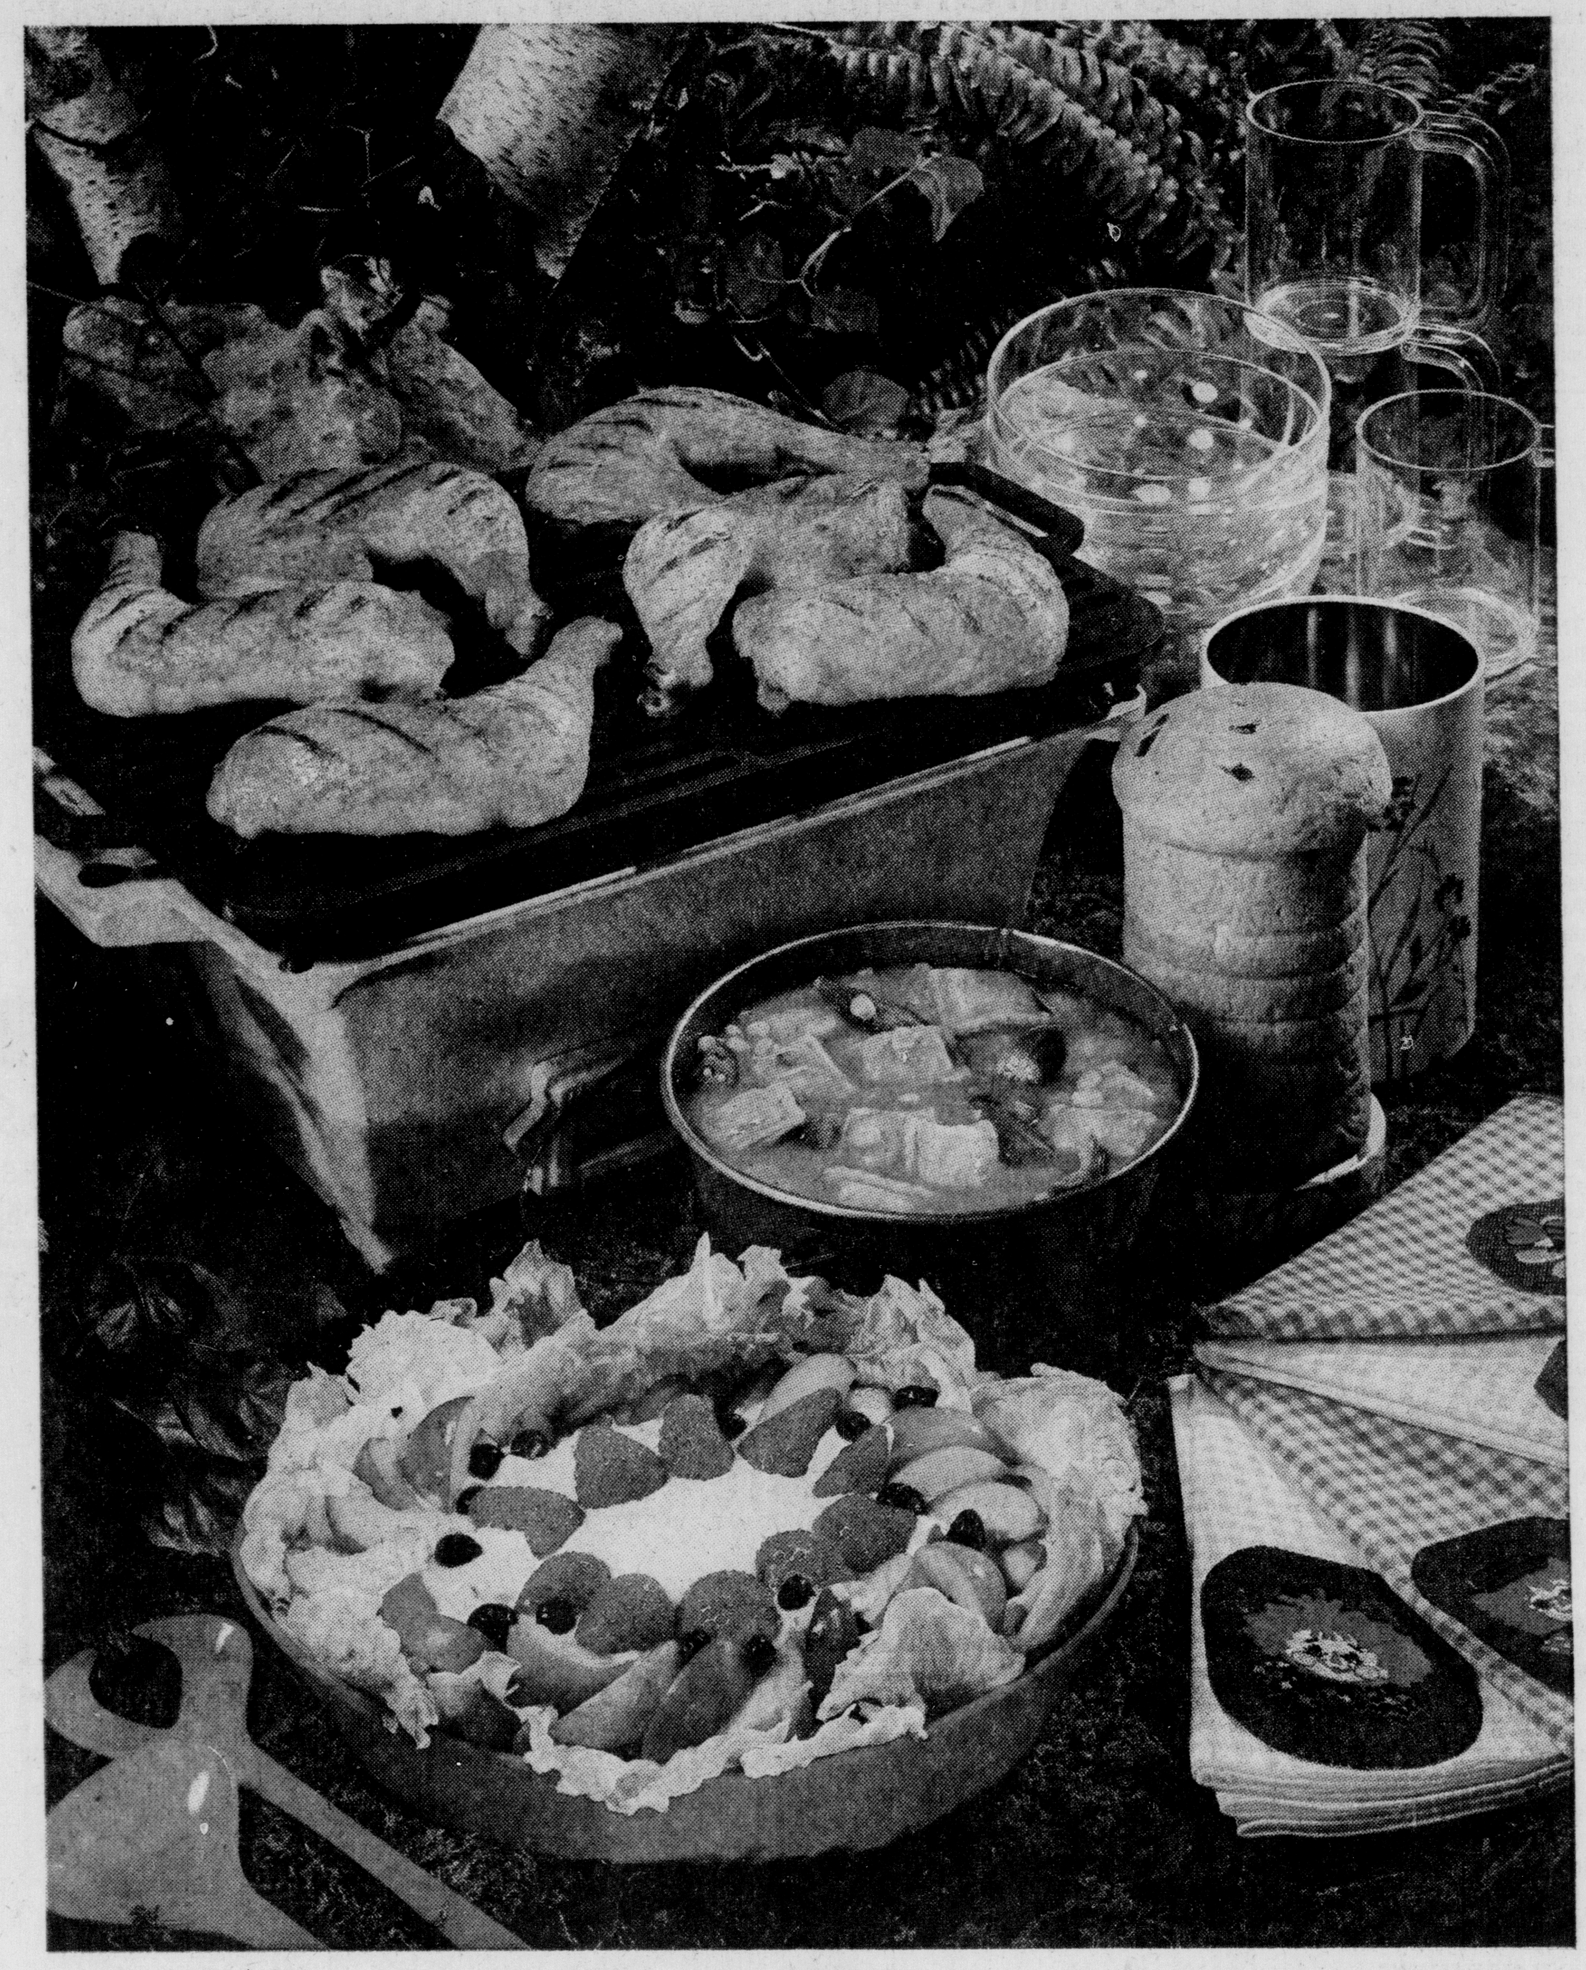
Camping in style!

Whether it's a day's outing with a picnic lunch, a weekend spent roughing it at a nearby lake or woodland stream, or a vacation at one of hundreds of state parks across the country, food never tastes better than when prepared and eaten outdoors.

But good camp cooking doesn't just happen. Plan simple, well-balanced meals which are both interesting and nutritious. Outdoor activities consume large amounts of energy and healthy meals therefore are a must.

Shop for food items which can be made into a variety of dishes and share mealtime responsibilities so no one person finds cooking a burden. And, whether cooking in a well-equipped luxury camper or over an open fire, have fun with these recipes, which have good taste, nutrition and simplicity.



BACK TO NATURE CHICKEN

- 4 to 6 broiler-fryer legs (drumstick with thigh)
- 4 teaspoons soy sauce
- ¼ cup honey
- 3 tablespoons powdered instant orange drink
- ¼ cup warm water
- 2 tablespoons butter
- Salt and pepper to taste

Wash legs, dry, and sprinkle with soy sauce. Let stand while mixing sauce. Dissolve the powdered orange drink in water. Add honey slowly. Melt butter and add to sauce. Pour honey mixture over legs in soy sauce and let stand until ready to cook. Place chicken on grill, skin side up about 8 inches from heat. Cook about 40-45 minutes (or until fork can be inserted with ease) turning very often, TO KEEP FROM OVER BROWNING. (This needs constant watching on grill). Baste generously with sauce as legs are cooking. When done, remove from grill and salt and pepper generously.

Makes 6 servings.

RAVIOLI GUMBO

- 1 cup diced onions
- 1 cup diced green pepper
- 1 tablespoon cooking oil
- 1 can (15 oz.) okra, washed and drained
- 1 can (12 oz.) corn niblets, drained
- 2 cans (15 oz. each) Mini Ravioli
- ¾ cup water
- Few drops hot pepper sauce (to taste)
- ½ teaspoon garlic powder

Saute onions and green pepper in 1 tablespoon cooking oil until tender. Mix sauteed vegetables with remaining ingredients and simmer 5 minutes.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

WESTERN TOSSED FRUIT SALAD

- 1 head western iceberg lettuce
- 2 cups fresh California nectarine slices
- ¼ cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese, room temperature
- 2 cups fresh California strawberries, whole or halved
- ½ cup fresh blueberries

Prepare lettuce at home as instructed in camping tips and keep chilled in ice chest. Place nectarine slices in mixing bowl. Blend sugar and ginger. Mix with nectarines; cover and refrigerate about 1 hour. For dressing, drain syrup from nectarines into small bowl. Add lemon juice and cream cheese. Beat to blend. Prepare berries. To serve, remove a few outer lettuce leaves from chilled head and line serving platter. Shred remaining head and place on platter. Group the fruits decoratively atop lettuce. Serve with cheese dressing.

Makes 6 servings.

MARINATED MUSHROOM SALAD

(Not Illustrated)

- 1 head western iceberg lettuce
- ¼ lb. fresh mushrooms
- ⅓ cup clam juice
- ⅓ cup salad oil
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- ¼ to ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon tarragon, crumbled
- Pepper sauce to taste
- 1 cup sliced red onion
- 1 tomato

Prepare lettuce at home as instructed in camping tips and keep chilled. Rinse and scrub mushrooms; cut off dry tips of stems. Slice mushrooms lengthwise. Combine clam juice, oil, vinegar, salt, tarragon and pepper sauce in large jar or juice container; cover and shake well. Add mushrooms and onion; shake to coat. Chill. To serve, tear enough lettuce to make 5 cups; chill remainder for use another time. Cut tomato into wedges. Combine with lettuce and mushroom mixture in large salad bowl; toss lightly.

Makes 5 or 6 servings.

SUMMER CAMP LASAGNA

(Not Illustrated)

- 1 cup diced zucchini
- 1 cup diced onion
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1 cup diced carrots
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 2 cans (15 oz. each) lasagna

Saute vegetables in butter in medium skillet. Add nutmeg and lasagna. Cover and cook over medium heat 5 to 10 minutes.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

CAMPERS' LEMON CHICKEN

(Not Illustrated)

- 1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts
- ¼ cup (½ stick) butter
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon basil leaves (dried)
- ½ teaspoon marjoram leaves (dried)
- ½ teaspoon garlic salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

Wash chicken and wipe dry. Place in shallow dish or pan. Melt butter in a small saucepan; add lemon juice and spices. Pour over chicken. Light fire and let chicken marinate until fire is ready. Place chicken on grill, skin side up about 8 inches from heat. Grill the chicken about 45 minutes (or until fork can be inserted with ease), basting with lemon marinade and turning every 10 - 15 minutes. Remove from grill and sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Makes 4 servings.

Camping Food Tips

1. Chicken is perishable but may be kept one to two days in an insulated cooler or refrigerated camper unit. To keep longer, freeze before leaving home, then refrigerate. Plastic sandwich bags are ideal for freezing individual servings whether a chicken half, quarter or cut-up parts. Gather the plastic bags together and wrap frozen chicken in heavy duty foil before placing in cooler.
2. Thaw frozen chicken in refrigerator or cooler (12-16 hours for whole bird; 4-9 hours for parts). Or thaw in cold water, changing often to hasten thawing time (about one hour). Or use a combination method and partially thaw in refrigerator, completing in cold water. Chicken may also be cooked in frozen state but longer cooking time is needed.
3. If you are buying cut-up chicken, plan on these as minimum individual servings: one breast half; one leg; two drumsticks; two thighs or four wings.
4. To ensure "ultra-crisp" western iceberg lettuce for a campout, core, rinse and thoroughly drain lettuce heads after marketing. Place in plastic bags, tuck in a paper towel to absorb any moisture, close tightly and chill in refrigerator until departure — then into the camp cooler or ice chest.
5. Add this hot salad-in-a-cup idea to your camping recipe collection. Mix ½ cup mayonnaise with a 15-ounce can of chili without beans and heat slowly. Fold in 3 cups crisp shredded western iceberg lettuce and serve at once in paper hot cups to accompany barbecued chicken.

English recipes at old landmark

by Charles Flynn

For the history buff who also likes excellent food, one can't go wrong by visiting the Olde Pink House Restaurant in Savannah, Georgia, a national historic landmark and the source of fine food in the Savannah tradition.

Originally constructed in 1771 with an exterior of pinkish stucco, accounting for the name, the building is located on land which was an original grant from the Crown of England in 1759.

Herschel McCallar Jr. and Jeffrey Keith, both experienced in restorations and in food business, purchased the house in 1970 and after extensive rehabilitation opened the restaurant in 1971. The Georgian stair which graces the building is said to be one of the finest to be seen anywhere.

Low country food is emphasized on luncheon menus; French creole and continental at dinner. Among tempting entrees are country shrimp creole, crab au gratin, and broiled baby flounder with crabmeat dressing.

A house specialty which accompanies every dish is this corn pudding. Drain a No. 2 can of whole kernel corn and add 2 well-beaten eggs. Mix together 2 tablespoons sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. Add 1½ cups milk and beat until smooth. Now add 2 tablespoons melted butter. Combine with the corn and eggs and pour into a greased casserole. Bake at 325 grees for 1 hour until pudding is firm. Serves 4.

Most popular dessert is called Savannah trifle which reflects English influence on the cuisine. Heat 1½ quarts milk in the top of a double boiler. In a mixing bowl, beat together 1½ cups sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, and 6 eggs until smooth. Add this to the warm milk and stir until mixture thickens and coats a metal spoon. Set aside to cool.

Whip 1 pint whipping cream and slice a 1½-pound "pound cake." When the custard has cooled, stir in ½ cup sherry. Using a flat baking dish (13x9x2) assemble the trifle by putting in a layer of cake, a layer of custard, then a layer of cream. Repeat until all ingredients are used. Cut into serving pieces and top each with a maraschino cherry. Will make 6 or more servings.

Herald food price survey

Though lower beef prices have been predicted for fall, based on the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture's report on record numbers of cattle being prepared for market, a Monday morning price survey showed beef prices holding generally steady with last month.

The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture also projected pork output this month at an average of 18 to 20 per cent below that of a year ago, with prices gradually creeping up.

The price of sugar is edging up as the peak of the home preserving, canning and freezing season approaches, with an average of about ten cents over last month noted.

Area stores surveyed also showed moderate overall price increases on bologna, butter and margarine. However, milk price dropped from last month.

At Jewel, dairy and egg products were generally higher than last month, with meat holding steady. Processed fruits and vegetables were generally lower there than at the other stores surveyed. Sugar was up 12 cents from last month.

Milk was down about eight cents from last month at National and ice cream was down 26 cents. Coffee, as predicted from coffee producers, started to climb, up 20 cents.

Butera had even better dairy and egg buys with ice cream lowest at 89 cents per half gallon. Potatoes were also about 40 per cent lower than at the other stores surveyed. Oranges were a good buy at 19 cents a pound.

Bologna was only 67 cents at the A&P compared to the other stores, which were between 10 and 20 cents higher. But the store showed a hike in coffee prices.

Treasure Island didn't show a coffee increase, but in anticipation, it limited customers to one can of coffee apiece. Overall prices and trends were comparable to the other stores surveyed.

Worldwide foods from childhood

by LOIS SEILER

Born in the South of France and raised in North Africa, Jacqueline Gaynes has a culinary repertoire as interesting as her background. She cooks primarily in the French manner, incorporating some North African dishes for variety, using recipes she learned from her mother.

Her family, which includes husband Seymour, son Marc, a junior at Northwestern University and Claudia, 9, are so accustomed to being served French food at home that it's no treat for them to dine at a French restaurant.

However, Jacqueline candidly admits that she likes tasty food that doesn't require hours in the kitchen, and with a nautural flair for flavor she can turn a simple dish into exciting dinner fare.

DURING THE summer months the Gaynes family enjoys dining on the patio of their home in Reseda, Palatine. Light meals and hearty salads are their preference. Salade Riviera is one of Jacqueline's specialties. Made from an old family recipe and served in a glass bowl, it is pretty in appearance and delicious to taste.

Although the salad is a mel-in-one, it may be accompanied by Chackchouka, a Moroccan recipe which means "mixture." Good hot or cold, it has an exotic flavor that complements Salade Riviera.

A UNIQUE POTATO salad from Tunisia makes a tempting accompaniment for barbecues.

A vinaigrette dressing is essential to all of Jacqueline's salads, including Salade Tunisienne. This is served chilled and is excellent with steak, lamb chops and other grilled meats.

For a refreshing summertime dessert, Jacqueline recommends Fraises au Vin, strawberries chilled in red wine and served in champagne glasses. She's enthusiastic about California wines, which she considers more economical and dependable in quality than imported French wines.

Jacqueline often travels to France to visit relatives, but this summer will be vacationing in Acapulco, Mexico, with her daughter, Jacqueline Coyne, and granddaughter, Monique, 8. She and Seymour enjoy their membership in a gourmet dinner group, and Jacqueline is also active in Brownies and in her spare time enjoys painting and gardening.

SALADE RIVIERA

1 pound shrimp
1 large or 2 small heads Boston or iceberg lettuce
1 can green beans, drained
1 can artichoke hearts, drained
1 can chick peas, drained
1 green pepper, sliced
½ can peas, drained
1 can sliced beets, drained
2 or 3 tomatoes, sliced
Few green and black olives
1 teaspoon capers
4 hard-cooked eggs, quartered

Cook and clean shrimp. Marinate in vinaigrette dressing while cooling.

Wash, drain and chill lettuce. Chill all canned vegetables.

Combine lettuce with drained canned vegetables and green pepper and toss with vinaigrette dressing. Drain shrimp and arrange on top of salad with sliced tomatoes, olives, eggs and capers. Serve immediately. Serves 4 or 5. (Tuna may be substituted for the shrimp, if desired.)

SALADE RIVIERA is a favorite family recipe of Acqueline Gaynes, Palatine. It is made from lettuce and several canned vegetables tossed with a vinaigrette dressing and topped with shrimp and capers.

Here's to sandwich month

August is National Sandwich Month and here is a sandwich to top all. Four different fillings are spread between slices of round sourdough bread.

For best results when using a whole sourdough bread, be sure to use a sharp knife when cutting the wedge servings. If you prefer to make individual Sandwich Towers, just stack the fillings on slices of white and whole wheat bread cut into rounds.

SANDWICH TOWER

Deviled Ham Spread:

2 cans (2¼ ounces each) deviled ham spread
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
½ teaspoon chopped chives
1/8 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce

In a small bowl mix all ingredients. Yield: 2/3 cup.

Salmon Spread:

1 cup (8 ounces) salmon, drained
¼ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/8 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce

In a small bowl mix all ingredients. Yield: 1 cup.

Egg Salad Spread:

3 hard-cooked eggs
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
½ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
1/8 teaspoon dry mustard

Mash eggs in a medium bowl. Add celery, walnuts, mayonnaise, parsley. salt, Tabasco and mustard; mix well. Yield: 1½ cups.

Avocado Spread:

1 cup mashed ripe avocado (1 large avocado)
1/3 cup chopped peeled tomato
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/8 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce

In a medium bowl mix all ingredients. Yield: 1 1/3 cups.

To assemble sandwich use 1 round loaf sourdough bread or 30 whole wheat and white bread slices cut into rounds. Cut whole loaf of bread horizontally into 5 slices. Spread one filling on each of 4 bottom slices, stack and add top slice. Chill for 1 hour. Cut into 6 wedges to serve. With bread rounds, use 5 for each serving; spread one filling on each of 4 bottom slices, stack and top with last slice. Garnish with stuffed olives. Yield: 6 servings.

SALADE TUNISIENNE

4 large tomatoes
4 large green peppers
Vinaigrette dressing
1 garlic clove, pressed

Roast tomatoes and green peppers over gray coals on grill until skin turns black, turning frequently. Peel while hot; skin comes off easily. Cut in strips. Toss with vinaigrette and pressed garlic. Chill at least one hour.

VINAIGRETTE DRESSING

3 parts olive oil or corn oil
1 part red wine vinegar
Salt and pepper to taste
¼ teaspoon French Dijon mustard
1 clove garlic, pressed

Combine ingredients and shake well. The flavor may be varied by adding herbs of your choice, such as basil, tarragon or marjoram.

FRAISES AU VIN

1 quart strawberries, cleaned and sliced
¾ cup red table wine
4 tablespoons sugar

Place strawberries into a bowl. Sprinkle with sugar and pour wine over all. Stir slightly and refrigerate at least two hours. Serve in champagne cups. The same method may be used with peaches and champagne.

CHACKCHOUKA

½ pound Italian sausage, cut in bite-size pieces
1 large onion, chopped
3 tablespoons olive oil
4 medium tomatoes, sliced
3 green peppers, sliced
1 garlic clove, pressed

Slice egg plant and soak in salt water about one hour to remove bitter taste. Drain, squeeze dry on paper towels and cut into cubes.

Saute onion and sausage in oil until onion is golden. Add egg plant, tomatoes, green pepper, salt to taste and garlic. Cover and cook 20 to 30 minutes. Serves 4 to 5. Good hot or cold.

POTATO SALAD AFRICAINE

5 large boiled potatoes, sliced and peeled
4 or 5 boiled beets or 2 jars sliced beets, drained
1 large Bermuda onion, sliced
½ cup diced celery
4 hard-cooked eggs, quartered
Pinch of dry tarragon leaves
1 garlic clove, pressed
Viaigrette dressing

Combine all ingredients and toss with vinaigrette dressing. Let stand one hour or longer in refrigerator. Add more dressing and salt and pepper to taste. Serves 6 generously.

Judging from a taste test . . .

Taking a bite out of 34 peanut butter cookies could be an endurance test for anyone. For a 4-H fair judge, however, it is just part of the job.

"And I drank lots of water," laughed one of the six foods judges, Kathryn Adams, Palatine.

The 200 entries for the August first judging in Barrington were prepared by 4-H club members ages eight to 19. And the products ranged from candies to pie crusts.

Gary Deverman, Extension Youth Advisor for Northwest Suburban Cook County, said people with home economics degrees or professional foods jobs were chosen as judges.

"Several were people who had judged before and were known to have done a good job," he said.

And doing a good job is no easy accomplishment. Food products were judged on appearance, texture, crumb, consistency, tenderness, and flavor.

For Mrs. Adams, who has judged at several other area fairs, the hardest part was the repetition.

"I try to be as fair to the last child as the first," she said. But with 34 peanut butter cookies to evaluate, fairness can take a lot of concentration.

Deverman said he mails information to the judges about a month before the fair so they can understand what the 4-Hers should have learned. The 4-H recipes are also included.

This procedure is appreciated by the judges.

Mrs. Jackie Rosenwasser, Wilmette, said she tried all of the recipes before judging.

"I am not the ultimate in judges," she said. "A lot is my own taste buds, and I can't judge what I don't know myself."

"Also, because I've done these things myself, I know the effort behind them," she explained.

It took about three hours for most of the judges to evaluate their assigned foods areas. And most judges skipped lunch before beginning their job at noon.

"You have to go there hungry," said Mrs. Rosenwasser. "I can see that if I had eaten lunch, the judging would have meant much less to me.

"I didn't have much of an appetite after I was finished," said Mrs. Adams.

Both Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Rosenwasser said they enjoyed the afternoon's experience.

"I was delighted to see how weell the kids do," Mrs. Rosenwasser emphasized. "Some of the entries were really terrific."

Devernan said all judging was final. And when the 4-Hers were allowed into the judging room to see how well they did, "I twas like a mad rush at a half-price sale," he chuckled.

FRUIT BRAIDS were given taste test by judge Jackie Rosenwasser at the 4-H Fair competition. Appearance and nutrition are two points considered. All the entries were "pretty good," according to Jackie.

A LOAF OF bread, a jar of preserves, and a 4-Her. These were prize-winning entries in 4-H food competition among 8-19-year-olds.

Big cheeses

City people, small families and West Coast residents are the nation's biggest consumers of cottage cheese, says the United Dairy Association.

The association added that purchases increase as consumers grow older. Families with one or two members buy more than four times as much cottage cheese per capita as larger families with six or more members.

A hurry-up breakfast

Although we should all take time for breakfast, sometimes the mornings get too rushed If that happens often, here is a recipe for a breakfast bar to give you energy until lunch time.

BREAKFAST BARS

6 tablespoons frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed, undiluted
¼ cup chopped dried apricots
½ cup chopped pitted dates
1/3 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1/3 cup chopped walnuts
½ cup soft butter or margarine
1 cup packed light brown sugar
1 egg
1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 cup uncooked oats, quick or regular
2 tablespoons sesame seeds
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon grated orange rind.

In medium saucepan combine undiluted concentrated orange juice, apricots, dates, sugar and salt. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, until mixture thickens, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in walnuts and set aside. In large bowl cream together butter and brown sugar. Beat in egg, then blend in flour and remaining ingredients. Press ½ of dough into greased 9-inch square baking pan. Spread with filling and sprinkle remaining dough over filling to form crumbled top. Bake in 350 degree oven 35 minutes. Serve warm or cold. Yield: 8 large bars.

Wise snacking

Choose snacks for their nutritional value. An orange, for example, contains 65 calories and lots of vitamin C. In contrast, a one-ounce chocolate bar has double the calories and very few other nutrients. An ounce of roasted peanuts has about 170 calories, but it supplies both protein and niacin. (UPI.(

ALL-WEEK LOW PRICES AND SPECIAL VALUES MEAN BIGGER SAVINGS FOR YOU AT THE . . .

BUDGET FOOD STORE

GOLF AND MEACHAM ROADS, SCHAUMBURG

By now, you know the Budget Food Store is able to offer unusually low food prices because you help control our operating expenses by doing some of the work yourself (things like pricing and parceling your purchases). You also know the selection of foods offered is made up of the same name-brand quality foods you're familiar with. But, what you might not know is that we offer special savings each week on many of your favorite meat and produce items — so you can actually save more on your total food bill.

It just makes sense — and "cents" saved for you — that everyday low prices plus special weekly values can add up to extra savings for you and your food budget. Take a look at some of the bargains on this page. They'll give you just some idea of how valuable a trip to the Budget Food Store can be. Why not try it this week and see for yourself?
